Voters to Ask Danforth For Opinion on Briggs

By DAN D. WHITTLE

BENTON — Abram Hirschowitz, Oran, chairman of the Scott County Voters League said this morning the organization is going to ask state Attorney General John Danforth for an opinion on the residency of Magistrate Lloyd G. Briggs of Birmingham.

Hirschowitz said this is the "non-partisan" organization's first official act since being organized one month ago. Twenty-five persons comprise the league, which was orgainzed to assure better county government, according to the chairman.

"There have been too many loose ends in the past that needed looking into," he said. "We are going to take a close look at all political activities."

Briggs has lived in Alabama since 1965. He is a licensed real estate salesman there, which requires him to be a bona fide resident of that state.

Briggs contends he is a Missouri resident. Missouri law requires magistrate candidates to live in the state nine consecutive months prior to their elections. Briggs was elected in November. He did not live in Missouri the nine months prior to November.

Briggs took office Friday.

A part of the controversy surrounding Briggs, was settled this morning with payment of $449.40 to the Scott county court.

The funds date back to when Briggs, who was elected magistrate in November, served as circuit clerk. The funds are reflected in an audit made by the state from Jan. 1, 1959, to Dec. 31, 1964.

The acceptance of the check was the first offical action taken by the new county court. The court was advised by a letter from Thomas Gilmore, prosecuting attorney of Scott County, the funds should be deposited by the county clerk and then paid over to Lynn Ingram, circuit clerk, for credit to the account involving court cost deposits that are held in trust by the circuit clerk.

In a letter to the court from Briggs, he said:

"As I have previously advised the county court, the audit in its present state does not indicate what amount of these open items pertains to the period when I was circuit clerk and what amount pertains to the period of time when Mrs(Phyllis) Bollinger was the acting clerk.

"This (check) is not an admission of liability on my part because I honestly don't know whether I owe this money."

Briggs said he was paying the amount to expedite the matter and save tax money that would be required to determine exactly what portion of the money he owed, if any.

Briggs is scheduled to hold his first session of court Tuesday morning in Sikeston.

Brigg's check was accepted by Les Landford, presiding judge of the county court.

The Federal Aviation Administration will install the Instrument Landing Systems at a total cost of $6,490,000 if the bill becomes law.

The ILS is a radio- beam device that transmits a continuous signal from the ground to the approaching aircraft.

New County Court Holds First Meeting

BENTON -- Members of the new Scott County court met officially for the first time this morning.

The court is comprised of L. D. Lankford, Chaffee, presiding judge; Eldon Ziegenhorn, Sikeston, judge of district one, and Louie Hirschowitz, Oran, judge of district two.

The judges agreed to continue meeting each Monday and Friday, the practice of the previous county court.

Judge Lankford said the court will spend one day each week in driving around the county to assure maintenance of county roads and ditches.

Judge Lankford said county officials are preparing budgets for 1971. The county court will determine the overall county budget from this. Judge Lankford predicted the budget will be about the same as last year.

The court voted to continue to employ Clarence Cannon as county highway supervisor and Evin Burke as county ditch commissioner. The appointments are for two years.

Marijuana In Truck, Two Arrests

NEW MADRID--Steve Haggett, 22, of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Byron Cummins, 19, a student at Arkansas State in Jonesboro, were arraigned in magistrate court this morning on charges of possession of marijuana.

They requested and received a preliminary hearing set for 1 p.m. Monday.

Haggett and Cummins were stopped last night by Officer Billy Carter for running a stop sign.

Carter said he noticed that the paneled truck in which they were riding was filled with smoke and noticed one of the men was acting strangely.

Carter took them to the city jail.

A small bag thought to contain marijuana was found in the vehicle and county officials were called. A check proved the substance to be marijuana and the two men were charged with possession.

They were released this morning on $1,000 bond.

Malden Man Killed in Crash

One was killed and another injured in a one-car accident Saturday afternoon near Malden, the highway patrol reported.

At 3:50 p.m. west of Glennonville on Dunklin county, route J, a 1969 Chevrolet pickup truck traveling west, driven by R. C. Hill, 56, Malden, went out of control and struck a bridge, the patrol said.

Killed was a passenger, Herbert Franklin Coram, 41, Malden. The body was taken to Boyd Funeral Home, Malden, where services were today at 2 p.m. with the Rev. Dick Brown officiating.

Orchestra Concert Scheduled Friday

The high school orchestra, directed by Richard Powell, will present its annual winter concert Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafetorium.

The program will be a varied one featuring two violin soloists as well as the 43 member orchestra. From the opera, "The Red Poppy" by Rheinhold Gliere, comes one of the orchestra's favorite selections, "The Russian Sailors' Dance". The music, as the name implies, depicts the rough and clumsy dancy of rugged Russian seamen - first slowly, then faster and faster to a frenzied climax.

Music from Spain, quite and serene at times and then fiery and spirited, will be present in the selection "Andalucia Suite" by Ernest to Lecuona.

Traditional music from English folklore, will involve violin soloists Elizabeth Dupont and Terry Teachout as they play Alec Rowley's "Miniature Concerto" accompanied by the orchestra.

Classical music is a part of any orchestra program and the orchestra will perform Corelli's "Sarabande and Allegro" and "Prelude and Fugue" by Handel. Today's American music will be played.

The program will open with an American composer's selection, "Midnight Beguine" by Clare Grundman, and close with one of Bert Bacharach's top hits, "Raindrops Keep Falling On My Head".

No admission will be charged and there will be no reserved seats.

454 Die In Holiday Traffic

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic accidents killed 454 persons during the three-day New Year's holiday weekend during which heavy snow made roads hazardous over much of the nation.

The National Safety Council had estimated that between 400 and 500 motorists would die during the period from 6 p.m. local time Thursday to midnight Sunday.

The number was far below the record high of 564 in 1965 for the three-day celebration which brings in the new year. The record low since World War II for the period is 269, set in 1949.

The New Year's holiday is normally freer from accidents than other holidays. In the past year 612 persons died during the Labor Day weekend, 540 during July 4th and 509 during Christmas. All were three-day celebrations.

Bank Lowers Prime Rate

PHILADELPHIA (AP)–First Pennsylvania Banking & Trust Co., biggest in Philadelphia, today cut the prime interest rate from 6 3/4 per cent to 6 1/2 per cent –the sixth reduction in nine months–and explained "we've got money and we're looking for loans."

It was the first major bank in the nation to take this action.

The prime is the interest charged to the bank's best customers. It has skidded steadily from a high of 8 1/2 per cent last March.

James Bodine, First Pennsylvania's executive vice president, said "this should be a fine New Year's present for business."

The prime rate had been reduced to 6 3/4 per cent about three weeks ago, a move that started first in New York City and was joined by other financial institutions.

"We decided to cut the rate again," Bodine said, "Because the loan demand continues to be soft. The prime at its previous level was a bit out of step with the money market in general, and that needs a little prodding."

The annual economic message is the third major item that will be getting a going over from Nixon and top aides.

Mrs. Nixon will be making the trip but other members of the family have no plans to do so.

Blizzards Strand Thousands, Cause More Than 20 Deaths

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A raging winter storm that spread a foot-deep topping of snow from the Rockies to the Great Lakes, stranding thousands of homewardbound holiday travelers, dumped more snow today on the nation's midsection.

More than a score of deaths were blamed on the storm. Most of the victims were persons who overexerted themselves while shoveling snow. Others died in traffic accidents or were found in cars stranded on snowclogged highways.

Thousands of motorists who expected to return home Sunday night from New Year's weekend trips gave up and sought whatever shelter was available.

Roads were closed in states from Montana and Utah to Missouri.

Long lines of cars were stalled in roads or stuck in drifts. Motels were jammed and makeshift shelters sprang up in diners and service stations.

The storm aimed its pinch at Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas which were hit by blizzard conditions.

Iowa authorities reported that 20 inches of snow blanketed Mason City, 16 inches covered Waterloo and 14 inches fell on Dubuque and Des Moines.

15 Arrests Over Weekend

Police made 15 arrests over the New Year holiday weekend.

Assault and battery charges were placed against Bob R. Slayton, route one, Bertrand, who posted bond of $56; James Phillips, 405 South Prairie, and also was charged with peace disturbance, John Lon Craig, 324 Selma, who posted a $500 bond.

Jimmy Duel Bass, 312 Matthews was charged with destruction of private property, and posted a $500 bond.

John T. Schaffer, Kendall Street, was charged with assault and battery and resisting arrest.

James B. Anderson, 304 Heath, was charged with petit larceny. He posted bond of $106.

Jim Draper, 804 Agnes, was charged with peace disturbance and posted bond of $31.

A charge of destroying public property was placed against Johnny Lee Harris, 307 Alabame, and Eddie Marshall, 328 Sunset.

Public intoxication charges were filed against Samuel Littrell Jr., 804 Agnes, and Arthur Phillips, Poplar Bluff. Both posted a $15 bond.

James D. Buckley, 214 Goode, was charged with careless and imprudent driving and speeding.

Winds up to 50 miles an hour continued in parts of the Great Plains states and Burlington Northern Railroad officials reported 25-foot snow drifts in sections of Nebraska.

The storm dumped heavy snow outside the blizzard belt. A record 16.4 inches fell in a 24hour period on Moline, Ill., and 16 inches blanketed Harmony, Minn. White Rock, N.M., near Santa Fe, reported 15 inches.

The National Weather Service saw little letup of the wintry fury and issued heavy snow warnings for at least four inches from northeastern Iowa across Wisconsin to Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

Police blamed fierce winds and low visibility caused by driving snow for the crash of a light plane near Eureka, Utah, that killed a Minnesota couple.

A New Mexico woman was killed when her car slid off snow-packed U.S. 64 and into the Rio Grande north of Santa Fe, and in Kansas the body of a motorist was found 100 yards from where his car had stalled in deep snow. He apparently was a heart attack victim, police said.

In Nebraska, a 47-year-old Omaha man died Sunday night after apparently suffering a heart attack while shoveling snow. A truck converted to a snow plow became stuck near Millard and one of two men inside died of carbon monoxide poisoning.

The blizzard described by veterans as perhaps the most severe in the Lincoln and Omaha area in a quarter of a century ground travel, business and industry to a halt. The homecoming welcome for the University of Nebraska's Orange Bowl champions, stranded in Miami, was postponed for at least a day.

Lincoln got 13 inches of snow and Omaha 10. State police reported that more than 1,000 motorists were stranded by the storm in a 25 to 30 mile stretch of Interstate 80 near Omaha.

Most of the travelers found refuge in truck stops and state police asked farmers to keep their lights burning through the night so their homes would be visible to stalled motorists.

Southeastern Nebraska and western Iowa were paralyzed as blowing snow reduced visibility to zero. Airports were shut down in Des Moines and Council Bluffs, Iowa, Omaha and Lincoln.

Midway Airport in Chicago closed, O'Hare International sent inbound flights elsewhere for a time and Mitchell Field in Milwaukee cut back on operations, stranding 45 members of the road cast of the show "1776" who were headed for Des Moines.

Schools throughout the Midwest, set to reopen after Christmas vacation, called delays as snow snarled transportation systems.

Travel warnings were posted from Texas to Michigan, where flurries froze to highways coating them with a treacherous glaze.

Seven to eight inches of snow accumulated in the Oklahoma Pahnandle. Rain fell from the southern edge of the blizzard belt to the Gulf of Mexico.

At the edge of the snowline, a windstorm overturned three trailer homes and a tornado damaged houses in Arkadelphia. High winds and large hail walloped other areas of Arkansas.

Snow stranded in Concordia, Kan., a high school band en route home from the Orange Bowl.

The band left Miami in shirtsleeves after marching in the Orange Bowl Parade. After their chartered plane was diverted from Kansas City Airport to St. Louis they tried to make it home to Phillipsburg, Kan. in three buses.

But the vehicles became snowbound and the musicians had to ride out the storm in Concordia.

Snow was so deep in Wisconsin it forced authorities to call off a snowmobile race, although 5,000 fans made the trip to the Milwaukee suburb of Menomonee to watch the contest.

Kansas, Northwest Missouri Snowed In

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Much of Kansas and the north- western corner of Missouri began digging out slowly today from a storm that dumped up to a foot of wind-whipped snow on the two states, closed highways and caused three deaths.

With the wind still kicking up in some areas and drifting the snow, the opening of highways was a slow process.

Schools were closed at many places. Many travelers were able to make it to cities and towns, where they spent Sunday night in private homes, motels and other temporary accommodations.

The three storm-related deaths:

Edgar R. Edds, 59, Whiting, Kan., a highway department employes, who was struck and killed Sunday by two cars while standing beside a salt truck on U.S. 73 north of Huron.

George Sherbert, 52, Nickerson, Kan., who was found dead about 100 yards from his car which had stalled in the snow. Sheriff's officers said the death apparently was from a heart attack.

Jasper Shearhart, 52, Hays, Kan., who died Sunday in a Hutchinson hospital of an apparent heart attack. Hospital authorities said he had been shoveling snow at a friend's house in Hutchinson.

Two high school bands en route home from the Orange Bowl parade in Miami, Fla., were stranded--one in Kansas and the other in Missouri.

The 120-member Phillipsburg, Kan., High School band made it in three buses as far as Concordia, Kan., 90 miles from home, and spent the night there in private homes.

Ninety high school students and adults from Syracuse,Neb., were stranded with two buses at Maryville, Mo. They stayed Sunday night at Northwest Missouri State College and, with home only 100 miles to the north west, were anticipating another night as the school's guests.

More than 200 motorists were stranded in Hays because of snow-blocked Interstate 70.

The National Guard in Hays opened its facilities to house and feed some of the travelers. Motorists also spent the night in private homes and in a dormitory at Fort Hays State College. A motel set up temporary bedding in its dining room and took care of about 100 people.

At Great Bend, Kan., many streets were blocked and highways in the area were closed. One street was closed by a drift 30 feet wide and 6 feet high. The snow in the Great Bend area drifted badly by strong winds.

Dodge City streets also were jammed with snow, and many people had to walk to work. Most schools in southwest Kansas were closed. Schools at Greensburg and Garden City were reported open, but no buses were being sent out into the country in those areas.

The snow at Dodge City was described as a "10-inch fall that blew all over the place."

Hutchinson reported most highways in that area closed or partly blocked. Schools in Hutchinson were open but those in the county were closed.

Concordia received nine inches of snow, which was whipped by winds of 20 to 35 miles an hour. All county roads were drifted shut. County crews hoped to have the roads open Tuesday if the wind subsides. Concordia streets, except for major thoroughfares, were blocked in places.

Atchison, in northeast Kansas, received about 7 inches of snow. Except for some county roads, highways were open. Atchison schools were open but county schools held no classes.

About 100 motorists were stranded in McPherson overnight. The disaster unit of the ed Cross, aided by McPherson Jaycees and a radio club,served sandwiches and coffee, and, with motels and hotels filled, found rooms for many in private homes.

Highway K61 from McPherson to Hutchinson, was limited to one-way travel in many places but was expected to be open fully by evening. U.S. 56 east and west of McPherson also was restricted to one-way traffic in spots.

Two Men Attack Officer

Police man Paul Hall is recovering from shock, in Missouri Delta Community hospital after being struck in the stomach and back by two men while patrolling an alley behind the Woolworth Company store at 8:30 p.m. last night.

Hall stopped when he saw two men in the alley while investigating a broken barred window and a padlocked door during a rain. The two men jumped him, according to Chief Arthur Bruce who said that "Hall was trying to make contact for help from the police station when he was struck".

The men jumped a fence and ran down Front street near the Catholic church, where they escaped in a 1962 or 63 white Chevrolet.

Bruce said Hall was not able to get a good look at the men. One struck him from behind and the other hit him from the front knocking him to the ground.

Officers took Hall to the hospital. This morning he was still dazed and unable to describe what had happened. He will remain in the hospital for observation and will be X-rayed for a possible fracture.

Nixon Agreeable to Followup Of Tonight's TV Interview

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, who will hold an hour-long TV-radio conversation with four broadcast journalists tonight, says he would be willing to have a similar session with representatives of the writing press.

Chatting informally with four reporters on New Year's Eve, Nixon said the television networks already have indicated they would provide broadcast time for such a presidential question-and-answer meeting.

Nixon, however, said difficulty in agreeing on which four writers would represent news agencies, newspapers and news magazines might prove to be an insurmountable obstacle.

Tonight's broadcast will originate live from the basement-floor library of the White House at 8 p.m.

The idea for the program originated with the White House, reportedly with the aim of showing Nixon in a warm and intimate setting. A White House aide was quoted as saying:

"So many people say they want to know what the President is really like, we thought this was a good way to show them."

Another aide indicated the White House is hoping the broadcaste. will ask generalized questions instead of making inquiries keyed closely to current news developments.

But press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said no restrictions have been placed on types of questions that may be asked or on subjects to be explored.

He said the program would be "a general conversation in depth and perspective on major issues before the country and the presidency."

The four broadcasters who will question Nixon are Howard K. Smith of the American Broadcasting Co., Eric Sevareid of the Columbia Broadcasting System, John Chancellor of the National Broadcasting Co. and Nancy Dickerson, a former NBC correspondent representing the Public Broadcasting Service.

Ziegler acknowledged he had suggested the networks be represented by anchormen of the popular early evening news programs. However, he said the networks selected the participants.

When Nixon held a similar TV-radio conversation with Smith, Sevareid and Chancellor in Los Angeles last July 1, questioning was limited to foreign policy subjects.

The President spent the holiday weekend at Camp David, Md., watched televised football games and worked on his State of the Union Message to be delivered to Congress Jan. 22.

The White House announced he had vetoed a bill to revise the system under which federal blue-collar workers are paid. The bill would have provided a 4 per cent pay hike to 800,000 workers by providing an extra pay grade in each job classification.

Nixon, in his veto message, said the bill would have fed inflation with "costly and unwarranted pay features." He said the only way to pay costs of the raise would have been to cut jobs, especially in the Defense Department.

He signed a $3.55-billion three-year crime-fighting bill under which payments will be made to state and local government through the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

The new law provides added protection for the president and makes it a federal crime to kill, kidnap or assault a member of Congress or a congressmanelect while he is performing official duties.

Nixon also signed a bill authorizing $300 million in a three-year program to fight problems of alcoholism. Most of the money, $180 million will go to the states while the remainder will be granted various organizations fighting alcoholism.

Two Escape, Recaptured

POPLAR BLUFF--Two men temporarily escaped from the Butler county jail in Poplar Bluff early today but were quickly apprehended in the city, the highway patrol said.

"A boy made a phone call in the jail at 7 a.m. and when the jailor returned him to his cell, John Mobley, 20, and Terry Huff, 22, rushed the jailer, struck him on the head with a handle from a mop bucket knocking him out," Lt. George Montgomery said.

Montgomery said he picked up the two men 15 minutes later in the city.

He said the two were in jail on a breaking and entering charge and that he assumed the two would be prosecuted on felonious assault and jail break charges.

Third Fatality Marine Sergeant

STEELE--The highway patrol has identified Sgt. Joseph Edward Smith, 23, stationed at the Eltoro California marine air base, as the third fatality in the two-car accident two miles north of Steele Saturday morning.

The patrol said the vehicle involved was a 1970 Dodge traveling south, driven by Smith's wife, Barbara Louise, 23, Garden Grove, Calif.

The Dodge was passing a long line of vehicles and struck a 1970 Ford going north, driven by Willie M. Beard, 42, Kokomo, Ind., the patrol said.

Smith was a passenger in the Dodge. He was dead on arrival at Pemiscot Memorial hospital in Hayti.

Injured in the Dodge were the driver with face cuts; Kathey Smith, one, body injuries; and Stanley Smith, three, body injuries.

Killed in the Ford were Herman T. Beard Jr., 50, and his wife, Lillie Beard, approximately 56, both of Chicago.

The bodies were taken to the Dean Funeral Home in Caruthersville.

THREAT TO SURVIVAL

Charles B. Shuman who is retiring from the presidency of the gigantic American Farm Bureau Federation told the convention of members in Houston recently that inflation is the biggest threat to survival of the American system.

"It is eating us up," he said, "and if allowed to continue, can destroy this nation ... There is no mystery about the cause of inflation – excessive government spending and easy money ... Inflation rewards the speculators, the indolent and the reckless, and penalizes the poor, the aged and the thrifty."

In short, inflation is immoral.

HOW IMPORTANT ARE THE RAILROADS?

When the railroads shut down all over the country recently, some people couldn't get to work, others were laid off, wheels of industry slowed down, and power shortages were in the offing.

The 24 hours without trains jolted America and government officials including Congress.

According to the Department of Transportation, U.S. railroads move –

--41 per cent of the nation's intercity freight.

--70 per cent of the coal used by utilities and heavy industry.

--76 per cent of new autos and auto parts.

-78 per cent of the lumber and wood used in U.S.

--40 per cent of furniture shipments.

--63 per cent of chemicals, including most of those used to purify water supplies.

--68 per cent of iron, steel and other primary metals.

--46 per cent of meat and dairy products.

In addition, railroads each week carry an average of 4,041,000 commuter passengers and 1,494,000 other intercity passengers.

This union shutdown and the railroad crisis proved one thing that this cannot be allowed to repeat in the future.

Well, independent businessmen of the nation's 50th state, Hawaii, have come up with a new idea for cutting or eliminating losses from bad checks. They are supporting a proposal that the legislature pass a resolution encouraging all banks in the state to refuse checking accounts for any persons with a history of writing bad checks.

National Federation of Independent business surveys show that the problem of bad checks is quite a national problem, causing business substantial losses even when elaborate protection measures are taken. Banks, of course, "bounce back" bad checks deposited by business and usually make a service charge.

It is apparently the viewpoint of these independent businessmen that the banks should assume some responsibility in curbing the flow of worthless checks.

Of course, we must add that any businessman knows he must set up his own safeguards -- one of which is to call the bank that a check is issued on to verify whether it is good or not, if there is any question in the merchant's mind at the time he takes it. If the customer won't stand hitched for this, that's all the warning needed.

BET ON THE PROBLEM SOLVERS

A number of social and economic philosophers foresee a grim race between the Earth's resources and an exploding population. As a solution, some of them suggest producing fewer goods and services including electric power. Altogether, their outlook can only be described as stagnant, depressing and -- most assuredly -- self-defeating.

Fortunately, the philosophers of despair are in the minority. Other people of a more positive turn of mind see new vistas of a better civilization for the future. Among these are representatives of the U.S. investor-owned electric light and power industry who attended the annual convention of the Edison Electric Institute. Mr. A. H. Aymond, speaking as retiring president of the Institute, said emphatically, "We disagree with those who believe that environmental solutions should include the concepts of power rationing ..." As Mr. Aymonds points out, abundant energy is elemental to survival, and every resource of technology must be bent to the task of more efficient energy production. For example, he notes that, "When controlled fusion is achieved, hydrogen atoms in the oceans of the world will form almost limitless reservioir of energy for mankind. The fusion process for creating electricity will make possible the recovery from wastes of basic raw materials for recycling into new products ... science and technology, well-directed and properly applied, can be a savior of our physical world -- indeed, of our species."

This year, as never before, the Annual Meeting of the U.S. electric industry reflected the widening gulf between the school of thought which would have the nation retreat into oblivion and the kind of leadership that is able to turn today's problems into a better tomorrow.

AMERICA'S FIRST 20 YEARS

The United States of America grew to greatness in the early years of its existence. Some of the reasons for this meteoric rise in our country's success were our geographical location, our natural resources, and our western European cultural heritage.

After giving due credit to these factors, however, we must acknowledge the greatness of our early leaders as the single most important asset which our new republic possessed. Time after time outstanding leaders came to the fore. From the Declaration of Independence to the Louisiana Purchase, there was always someone to step forward and stand out.

The first great leader of our country was George Washington of Virginia, who gained fame long before there was a United States of America.

After beginning his career as a surveyor at the age of 16, Washington became a military man in 1753 at the age of 21, on the eve of the French and Indian War. Washington performed heroically during this war, being made commander of all Virginia troops with the rank of colonel. After this war Washington was alternately a farmer, a member of the House of Burgesses, and a justice of the peace.

In the House of Burgesses, Washington strongly opposed such British measures as the Stamp Tax and the Boston Port Act. In 1775, Washington was named commander in chief of the Continental Army.

Most people know of Valley Forge and of Washington's gallant leadership throughout the Revolutionary War. Washington also was president of the Constitutional Convention of 1787, and he, of course, because the first President of the United States in 1789.

He served two terms as President and then stepped down, setting a precedent that has prevailed with one exception throughout the years. Washington's greatest contributions to American life were his devotion to the Constitutions to American life were his devotion to the Constitution and his policy of noninvolvement in the affairs of other countries.

George Washington was indeed the father of our country and was "first in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

John Adams, the second President of the United States, was born in Massachusetts in 1735, and his contributions toward freedom were several. In 1735, and his contributions toward freedom were several. In 1765, he fought publicly against the Stamp Act, and in 1766, he wrote newspaper essays for the Boston Gazette. He was a delegate to he firs and second Continental Congresses, and he was especially influential in securing the adoption of the Declaration of Independence. He was a minister to Holland and to Great Britain. He served two terms as Vice-President and one as President.

John Adams believed in and fought for independence and freedom at every opportunity.

Thomas Jefferson, America's great third President, was born in Virginia in 1743. Jefferson showed greatness throughout his life, from the campus to the Presidency.

He was educated at William and Mary College, and in 1767 he was admitted to the Virginia bar, subsequently becoming a successful lawyer. He was elected to the Virginia House of Burgesses in 1769 and for the next six years was a member of every assembly and convention of the colony.

Jefferson was elected to the Continental Congress in 1775 and again in 1776. During the Continental Congress 9f 1776, Jefferson drafted the Declaration of Independence which was adopted by the Congress.

After independence was declared, Jefferson served in the Virginia legislature and as the governor of Virginia. He then served as minister to France. He also used his influence in helping to bring about the Bill of Rights for the Consititution.

In 1789, Jefferson became the first secretary of state. During his tenure he founded a States' Rights Party In 1796, Jefferson was elected Vice-President of the United States. In 1800, he was elected President. His greatest achievement as President was the Louisiana Purchase. Othe;achievements were the Lewis and Clark Expedition and the naval expeditions against the pirates of Tripoli. In 1809, he retired to Monticello.

Thus the first twenty years passed. The Revolutionary War had been fought and won; the U.S. Constitution had been written, o which the Bill of Rights had been added; the new government had been established; the Louisiana Purchase had been settled; the western territory was being explored; and the new republic had steered clear of war.

The years of 1789 to 1809 were a great twenty years, and these were a great trio of Presidents – Washington, Adams, and Jefferson.

NEW YORK (AP) – Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Oddly enough, one of the best ways to gain weight is to go on a reducing diet. An expert, the late Dr. Norman G. Joliffe, said that "at least 90 per cent of all the people who lose weight on a diet gain more back than they have lost."

Education is spreading in the world—but so is illiteracy. The number of illiterates today is estimated at 800 million, or 100 million more than existed 20 years ago.

Ever wonder where the expression "to pull the wool over one's eyes" came from? According to the National Geographic Society, it is believed to have originated in the days when gentlemen wore long white wigs, made of wool usually. Highwaymen would pull a victim's wig down over his eyes before taking his belongings.

Among America's white population, one out of every 625 persons becomes a doctor. Among the nation's Negro population only one out of every 3,800 does.

Women are calmer than men. They lose their temper only three times a week on the average—men six times. Psychological studies also show that men usually are stirred to wrath by inanimate things such as dull razor blades, missed trains, or furniture they've tripped over. Women more commonly flare up at other people.

Quotable notables: "Longevity, barring hanging and accidents, is largely a matter of heredity."—Dr. Howard W. Haggard.

Add these to oddly-named U.S. communities: X-Ray, Tex.; Hospital, Iowa, and Red Cross, Pa.

Worth remembering: "It's never too late to mend, because the older we get the more repairs we need."

Early losers: Despite great medical advances, life is still a gamble from birth. One out of every 50 babies in the United States dies within 30 days after being born.

AN IMPORTANT STUDY

Electric power reliability is essentially an engineering, rather than a legislative, problem – not withstanding the ferment of legislative proposals on the subject that seem to get the headlines. Important news concerning the maintenance of current high standards of reliability in the electric power industry is found in a press release of the Edison Electric Institute. The Institute, according to the release, will undertake a two - year research study aimed at insuring continued reliability of electric power service in the U.S. The study will consist of a program to be pursued by 6 research organizations under the sponsorship of EEI -- trade association of U.S. investor - owned electric power companies.

In announcing the forthcoming study, a spokesman for the Institute notes that current methods of analyzing, operating and controlling growing complexes of power system networks will be " ... approaching their upper limits of effectiveness." He further noted that, " .... New communicating, computing and control systems, plus new methods in 'system analysis,' are becoming available at a rapid rate as a result of advancing technologies. These new tools, along with extensions and improvements of current methods of power system analysis and control, give promise of meeting the future needs of power system security if pursued through adequate research ...."

A half dozen fields in which this research is to be conducted involve the most sophisticated disciplines that can function best in an atmosphere of private initiative – an atmosphere whose merit is often overlooked in Washington's political ferment.

SOUND OFF LOUD AND CLEAR

The president of the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey, Inc., of New York made a statement before 750 farm organization officials that even a child can understand:

"Government officials invariably advance their spending increases and proposed new programs as being in response to 'demands of the people,' Since it is the people who pay the taxes to finance that spending, it is time for the taxpayers to sound off loud and clear with some demands of their own. Like most families, government is faced with more demands on its budget than that budget will support. While the family income imposes a clear limitation on the number of demands which can be met, the government has no such precise limit to keep its spending in line .... Certainly many things must be done now, but we are pushing the limits of taxation both in terms of its effect on individual taxpayers and the economy of the State ... Government officials have the responsibility to recognize the necessity of setting a limit. That is the only alternative to trying to do everything for everybody all at once."

And it should be added, the people must set a limit on the demands they make on government. They should be told in plain language, they and they alone will have to pay for every demand. The time to set a limit is before one goes broke.

IN THE MAIL: "All the charts on formalwear specify black socks with a tuxedo. Does this still hold true now that men are wearing colored and patterned jackets? Can the socks be coordinated with them?" No, sir, it's black socks for formal clothes, regardless of the colors of the ensemble.

CASHING IN ON THE FEM-LIBS

The ingenuity of the American businessman is apparently a match for any challenge. One manufacturer of appliances for housewives has even figured out a way to capitalize on the women's liberation movement.

Just introduced on the market is a new vacuum cleaner called the "Lifelong," whose claim to fame is seven easily replaceable parts.

Should any component in the cleaner, including even the motor, go on the blink, your average housewife can order a new one and simply snap it in place. No tools are needed, including that simple tool called a husband. The machine thus liberates a woman from that much dependence on the "man around the house."

It's rather doubtful if the fem - lib battalions will rush out to buy the vacuum cleaner, desirable as it sounds. They don't seem to be the types who go in much for housework of any kind.

Now if some manufacturer really wanted to strike a blow for liberation — for housewives and house husbands both — he'd come up with a car with replaceable snap - on fenders.

H.L. Hunt Says

DEATH PENALTY FOR ESCAPE PLANS

In communist Russia, simply planning to escape from the so-called "worker's paradise" is considered treason, punishable by the death penalty. Without getting near an airplane to carry out their excape plans, 11 citizens were arrested and hauled into court. Nine of the 11 were Jews and two of the Jews were sentenced to death while the nine remaining defendants were sentenced to labor camps.

Literally millions of political prisoners have died in Soviet labor camps for such crimes as planning to excape from Russia or even lesser offenses, so perhaps those being executed may have easier deaths than those facing the horror of the labor camps. If it is not too late, Jews around the world at last are being aroused to the dangers of communism.

Contrast the fast trials, and death penalties, in communist lands for simply planning to escape with the permissiveness in non-communist nations. In non-communist lands, actual hijacking of planes has become frequent but penalties and punishment have been weak. Also, revolutionaries are allowed to teach overthrow of the government by force and permitted to encourage students to murder their own parents.

Leftists, while urging a Marxist world, have virtually eliminated the death penalty in free nations such as the U.S., Canada and Britain, but these leftists seldom can bring themselves to criticize any communist regime for long, no matter how many bloody executions it perpetrates. In the U.S., when revolutionary criminals actually come to trial, on rare occasions, they are glamorized by national media and allowed to make a farce of judicial procedures. Trials drag on for months with the taxpayers footing the bill. Yet, the foolish attack the U.S. as being to repressive, while praising and "building bridges" to communism. HLH

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON -- Sam Houston Johnson has hinted that his famous brother, Lyndon, might try to return to the White House in 1972. Intimates agree that the former President doesn't like some of the leaders who are speaking for the Democratic party and manuevering for the presidential nomination.

He believed Ted Kennedy, George McGovern, William Fulbright, and the other Senate doves are repudiating the foreign policy and world leadership provided by Democratic Presidents since World War II. Even the more moderate Senator Ed Muskie, in his campaign for the nomination, is edging too far to the left to suit LBJ.

Johnson will be 64 in 1972, five years older than Richard Nixon but no older than Harry Truman was during the 1948 campaign. But LBJ, who has already suffered one heart attack, has expressed private apprehension over his longevity. In discussing his future with intimates, he has remarked that long life doesn't run in his family.

Those who know LBJ say he would rather be a kingmaker than attempt a comeback himself. They believe he would dearly like to install his close friend and political protege, John Connally, in the White House. For Connally is cast in the LBJ image, a carbon copy politically of the old master.

But even with Johnson's support, Connally has small chance of ever winning the Democratic presidential nomination. Intimates assert that LBJ has guided him instead into the Presidents Nixon's Cabinet. Connally accepted the appointment as Secretary of the Treasury, they say, with Johnson's quiet advice and consent.

This opens the door for Johnson himself to join the Nixon team. If an unacceptable liberal wins the 1972 Democratic nomination and if Nixon would accept Connally as his running mate, LBJ might come out for Nixon in 1972 and lead conservative Democrats into bolting the party.

$79,000 CAMERAS

The Defense Department has been cutting back expenditures so sharply that GIs are short of replacement parts for their jeeps and maintenance supplies for their barracks.

But Assistant Defense Secretary Roger Kelley is trying to squeeze $79,000 out of the budget for a brace of color TV cameras. He is eager to tape Pentagon propaganda in living color for the armed forces television network.

Given the new emphasis on economy, however, the budget shrinkers consider Kelley's cameras nonessential. They turned down his request, to quote a confidential memo, "in light of congressional criticism" of the number of communications devices already "controlled by the Secretary of Defense."

Undaunted, Kelley has now appealed over the heads of the budget boys His deputy, Vice Adm. W.P. Mack, contended in a return memo that "television cameras certainly do not fall in this category."

While Kelley is maneuvering to get new color TV cameras, incredibly, the Air Force is closing down its color studio at Andrews Air Force Base not far from the Pentagon. If the short ride to Andrews is too inconvenient for Kelley, there are other Air Force color facilities only a few steps away in the Pentagon itself.

In any case, most stations on the armed forces television network aren't equipped to show color tapes.

FIDGETY HOOVER

J.Edgar Hoover's rise from an obscure bureaucrat to an omnipotent crimebuster, whose name is familiar to every American, can be attributed partly to his bulldog look and his public relations genius.

There was the celebrated arrest, for example, of Alvin "Kreepy" Karpis back in 1933. Hoover was testifying before a Senate committee when he was alerted that his agents had Karkpis surrounded in a New Orleans apartment house.

Hoover barged out of the hearing and rushed to the airport for a plane to New Orleans. He was standing near Karpis's car when the desperado strolled out of the apartment building. As the racketeer settled behind the steering wheel, Hoover jabbed his pistol behind Karpis's ear.

"Well, I guess you've got me," said Kreepy.

"Put the cuffs on him, boys," snapped Hoover.

There was an embarrasssing search for handcuffs; no one had any. Kreepis Karpy, Public Enemy No. 1, was finally led to justice with his hands bound by a necktie. That tie, along with other mementoes of the war against crime, occupies a position of honor in the FBI's musuem.

Our FBI-Style investigation of Hoover indicates, however, he is no longer the gun-toting, staccato-talking, fearless foe of crime and communism that his press notices would have the public believe.

He is the only government official, except for the President himself, to rate a bulletproof limousine. Maxine Cheshire, the Washington Post's society sleuth, declares that Hoover rides slouched down in one corner of the car while his hat is propped up in another corner as a decoy to draw possible hostile fire.

A youth with shoulder-length hair, who lives in Hoover's neighborhood said the FBI chief seems nervous about him. The youth told us that when he is around, Hoover won't leave his bulletproof Cadillac. The G—man and his chauffeur just sit in the car until the youth has moved up the street.

At times of civil disorders, plainsclothesmen park in unmarked cars in the neighborhood and read newspapers interminably. Indeed, neighbors say that two men park in front of Hoover's house almost every day after Hoover leaves and go inside the house. They appear to be security men.

Pants-Pressing Hoffa: Nixon and Teamsters' Chief Fitzsimmons Confer Confidentially in White House.

WASHINGTON: -- Two Teamsters leaders were under maximum security at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday, December 23. One was in the White House Oval Room chatting amiably with the President of the U.S. The other was in Lewisburg penitentiary cleaning and repairing mattresses for his fellow inmates and cleaning and pressing uniforms for guards of the U.S. Bureau of Prisons.

In the prison shop was No. 33298, Jimmy Hoffa, almost 58 years old and still in good shape, still working out, still planning to make good his pledge that snowy March 7, 1967, when he said, "I'll return to the union," stepped into the marshal's car, spat in the directionof a cluster of newsmen and was driven off to the maximum security block at Lewisburg.

And he is still General President of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters. But he'll never return to the union.

Meanwhile back at the White House, the portly 62-year-old Teamsters General Vice President Frank E. (Fitz) Fitzsimmons, now leader of the free world's largest union, had his finest moment. This former bus driver and trucker met on equal terms with Richard Nixon.

They talked of many things while Fitz's administrative aide nodded approvingly; Assistant Secretary of Labor Bill Usery praised the huge brotherhood for diligance in financial reporting; and special presidential adviser Charles "Chuck" Colson sat content with having brought together the heads of two empires.

Only once did Convict No. 33298 come up in the genial, almost fraternal, hour-long conversation. "Jimmy's" name was mentioned by the President -- not by Frank Fitzsimmons. The Teamsters' acting chief had dropped in seeking fraternity not clemency this time. It would have been gauche -- and everybody knows "Fitz" has grown with the office.

Prisoner Hoffa came into the dialogue after Mr. Fitzsimmons, more in sorrow than in anguish, told the President that the government bureaucrats give the teamsters a hard time. Every time an agency deals with the brotherhood, said he, it deals with suspicious and thrice the care and probing given any other union.

To this the President responded swiftly. The Teamsters will not be discriminated against. He knows what it means to be stigmatized. He did not want to get into the merits of the Hoffa matter, he asserted. He did not want to discuss the tactics or whether Hoffa had been justly or unjustly convicted. That is old history, right or wrong, added the President. He said in blunt, almost tough words, that his administration would not discriminate against the Teamsters nor would he permit them to be plagued by history. Three times he repeated that, three times is his fashion when he feels strongly and wants to make a point crystal-clear and hard-nosed.

He said that he knew what the Teamsters were up against and that his administration would judge the Teamsters on events today -- not those of history.

The Hoffa matter will not haunt you fellows, said he, and there will be no double standards in the Teamsters' relations with the government Fitz glowed amidst the holly, like just after a hole-in-one. Only this was better than golf.

There was in-talk: Fitz told of his dislike for Cesar Chavez and of his admiration for AFL-CIO chief George Meany. He spoke of the Teamsters' problems. And the President said the Teamsters were really hard hats at heart and he thanked them for their patriotic support.

All this now makes history. Fitz had sought the meeting. The President had finally invited him in for the signing of a new law affecting truckers.

But mark well this unreported gathering. Fitz now is a man among men of labor, a peer among a thousand union peers. He now could stand before the Teamsters' July 4 convention, declare his independence of Jimmy Hoffa and old history, run for office and be re-elected.

Then, as Lenin would say, the train of history will express it up the line.

There is no doubt that, once the Teamsters have a new president, the brotherhood will return to the "House of Labor" at the AFL-CIO's biennial national convention the following November in Bal Harbour, Fla. This will carry 1.1 million teamsters into the "Federation." Forgotten will be the wind-swept wintery day of 1957 in old Atlantic City when the Teamsters were ousted from the AFL-CIO.

Nor will the International Chemical Workers and the UnitedAuto Workers be far behind. And after the United Mine Workers (UMW) shakes free of federal litigation, it too will return and like Dorian Gray the photo of old John L. Lewis will ashen bit by bit on UMW walls.

And George Meany will stand as leader of the world's biggest, toughtest, organizing labor force, perhaps 20 million strong.

The express train could be derailed. It won't go easy for Fitz. Already secretly mailed letters, flowing from Puerto Rico, Chicago and Detroit, assail him.

Jimmy Hoffa in that old block has more pressing thoughts than pants. And friends, too. He could run in absentia and win if he "busts" Fitz, the man he made caretaker. It could happen. But it won't. History's train has passed James Riddle Hoffa by -- the stop at Elba has been discontinued.

Fitz made the Oval Room. He'll make the Teamsters presidency.

On Hoffa's old desk in the Teamsters marble palace here there still is his wooden plaque reading, "Illegitemi Non Carborundum" -- Hoffa's words for: "Don't let the bastards wear you down."

It should be replaced with a shingle reading "Sic Transit Gloria Mundi" -- thus passes away the glory of (t) his world.

Medical Miracle

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Katy is home now, five pounds of medical improbability, and thriving. But she really wasn't due until late this month.

Katy was born Oct. 19, more than three months premature, at Charlotte's Presbyterian Hospital. She weighed one pound, seven ounces. Then she lost two ounces and took two weeks gaining them back.

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. David Gilland of Charlotte, both in their late 20s.

"I was the most astounded human being in the world when she was born," said her father. "And I was more astounded when she was still alive 24 hours later."

Recalling the night of the birth, Mrs. Gilland said, "The doctor told me Katy was living, but he didn't know how."

Still, Betty Lord, Katy's nurse at Presbyterian, said, "This baby never had any troubles.

"We fed her every hour, for ages, through a tube, and then every two hours. A couple of weeks ago we started her on the bottle and then she started gaining two and three ounces a day.

"Thursday, she weighed five pounds and her parents were able to take her home.

The father, a strapping 194pounder, recalled that he, too, was on the wee side—2 1/2 pounds —when he was born at West Jefferson in the North Carolina mountains.

Mother of 11 Calls Children by Dates

Dear Ann Landers: That was a terrible letter from the woman who called her mother senile just because she couldn't remember the names of her children.

Our own dear mother lived to be 88. There were 11 children in our family. We were all born before Mother was 32. She could never remember any of our names so she used to call us by our birthdays. I was "January 3". Everyone called me "Jan" for short. (They still do). The two youngest in our family were twins. Mom called Harold, "Boy, February 9" and Burdette, "Girl February 9." My oldest brother is called "Ape " by everyone. (His birthday was April 8th.) The only confusions was with my sisters June and Marie. When Mom would holler "June !" she was calling Marie, but sometimes June (whose birthday was in December) would answer. Outside of that mixup there was no trouble.

Some people thought this was very strange. We never did. It seemed perfectly natural to us. So please print my letter and remind your readers that every mother has her own little oddities and this doesn't mean she is nuts ---- January 3.

Dear Jan: Thanks for letting us know how it was in your family My mother called us by our names. Sometimes she'd call three names before she hit the right one -- but she always made it eventually.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a freshman at a Midwestern University and I live in a dorm. I hope you'll answer in the paper because if a letter from Ann Landers showed up for me I'd die.

The problem is simple. I can't get a girl. I've had a few blind dates but when I ask a chick on my own I strike out.

I'm not the ugliest guy in the world and I can't figure out why I'm poison ivy. I see real jerks scoring left and right. One kid in this dorm who is a case of arrested development actually gets phones calls from dames. I'm a farily good [illegible]ionlalist and I really dig a [illegible]rap session. Can you suggest something? I like chicks as well as the next guy but they don't like me . What's the word? ---The Loner

Dear Loner: You say you like chicks as well as the next guy -- but who is the next guy, and how well does he like girls? Does he like them well enough to try a second or third time after he's been turned down? And what kind of chicks do you chase? The campus beauty who has twelve other cats running after her? You might hit pay dirt by calling that quiet, not-so-gorgeous gal who doesn't seem to have much going for her. You could solve YOUR problem and hers, too.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter is 18. She is a high-minded moral girl, holds a good job and has never caused us any trouble.

Last night when her date was leaving (about midnight) he slammed the door and yelled, "Go to hell." My husband is a sound sleeper and this awakened him. He asked me if I had hear it -- and I had.

At breakfast this morning our daughter said nothing. This evening at the dinner table my husband asked her what the argument was about. She replied, "Nothing important. Bill came to the office this afternoon and we straightened everything out."

Is this sufficient? My husband and I think it's not. If she were your daughter what would you do? ---Concerned Parents

Dear Concerned: I'd mind my own business. The hassle was between them. Stay out of it.

Pollution Solution Depends on You

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

'Tis the season to be pollution conscious. And the concern over the quality of the atmosphere poses problems for cities trying to dispose of thousands of Christmas trees after the holidays.

An Associated Press survey showed most cities have banned open-air burning and instead collect the trees and use them for landfill.

Conservation groups in some areas have other suggestions, however.

The Detroit Outdoorsmen, an affiliate of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, collects trees and hauls them to the northern part of the state for use as deer browse. The state group also suggest[illegible] trees be distributed in wooded areas for use as cover for rabbits and other small wildlife.

The Babe Ruth Baseball Association in Salem, Ore., raises money through a tree-collection program. Members pick up trees at a cost of 50 cents each, inspect them for nails and wire and turns them over to the city which puts the trees through a chipper or shredding machine to get mulch for erosion control on the slopes in city parks.

The Missouri Department of Conservation suggests homeowners make bird-feeding stations out of the trees, anchoring them in the backyard and covering them with such things as suet and fruit. The department also says that when several trees are wired together, weighted and sunk to the bottom of a lake, they make good cover for fish.

In California, a spokesman for the Sierra Club said his group had been trying to get people "to buy living trees and give them to the U.S. Forest Service after Christmas" for replanting. He acknowledged, however, that "live pine trees have been in short supply in the nurseries and pretty expensive too. You can't ask people to buy trees that don't exist."

Cincinnati's Environmental Coordinating Organization ran a similar drive and will collect the live trees and plant them in nearby open areas.

Typical of many cities is New York where the sanitation department has special postChristmas truck runs to pick up the trees which are put through a chipper, then buried at landfill sites. A department spokesman says the collection procedure takes about 10 days.

Artificial trees are one solution. Ralph Hulsey, superintendent of sanitation in Atlanta, estimated more than 200,000 trees would have to be disposed of in the area, then added: "I use an artificial tree. I really think this is the solution. Not only do you solve the problem of disposal, you lessen the fire hazard."

There are exceptions to the antiburning rules namely in areas where Epiphany bonfires 12th nights after Christmas are traditional.

In Denver, a spokesman for the pollution board said the 12th night bonfires were considered "recreational burns" and exempt from pollution laws.

Massachusetts officials told residents of Marblehead their plan to burn trees on a beach causeway in a traditional celebration was illegal. But the city Board of Health decided not to oppose the plan and a spokesman said, "If the sponsors of a 12th night program want to burn Christmas trees and greens at River Head Beach as they have for so many years, the Board of Health will let them do it."

Not so in Kansas City. The director of air pollution control refused to issue a special permit for the Epiphany burning traditionally held in a city park and the Recreation Department canceled the program.

Breakfast Makes Better Day

Let's start the year off right by starting the day off right--with breakfast! This is the time of year when everyone exchanges unfavorable habits for healthier, happier ones. Why not the "Breakfast Habit"!

Start your day by eating necessary foods that build a balanced diet. Studies show that better work and concentration are attained when you eat a well-balanced breakfast. Studies also show that malnutrition in a child's formative years may do permanent damage to his ability to perform as an adult. Breakfast is needed to "get you going," by providing at least 1/3 of your daily nutrient requirements. All it takes is planning ahead to spend a few minutes with your family while you enjoy favorite foods together.

For the past two years the Poultry and Egg National Board has designated January as "National Egg Month." We know of no better time of year to give emphasis to this nearly perfect food. As one of nature's masterpieces, the egg contains high quality and complete protein; also, iron and all known vitamins except Vitamin C.

Here's new for those who watch their cholesterol count. The latest twenty year long Framingham study has revealed that fat intake may have no relation to development of Coronary Heart Disease. Hard to believe? I'll keep myself informed on this subject and let you know the final decision of the American Heart Association.

Of course, a breakfast "must" is that of including America's popular breakfast meat--pork. It's easy to include this meat at every breakfast, as well as at any meal, because of its versatility and its taste compatability. We should dismiss all old fears about pork because the "new" pork is one of the most digestible of foods and, because of its concentration of key nutrients, it contributes very much to good health.

Pictured is one familiar suggestion for a happier day or, try it often, with its many variations, for a happier year.

When serving eggs, the styles to choose from are many: fried, poached, scrambled, or omelets with accents of grated cheddar cheese, mushrooms, bits of bacon, ham or chives. You may be delightfully surprised by adding a bit of grated parmesean cheese or garlic powder. In addition to the eggs, pork may also be served in many ways such as sausage, ham or bacon.

Of course, enjoy your breakfast with a cold glass of milk. Cheers! A Healthy New Year to you and yours from the Missouri Department of Agriculture.

Gourmet Corner:

"Plimoth Succotash" is a far cry from the mixture of corn and lima beans we eat today. Here is a recipe from the anniversary cook book.

* * *

PLIMOTH SUCCOTASH

1 quart pea beans
6 lbs corned beef
5 lbs fowl
5 quarts hulled corn
1 medium turnip
5 medium potatoes

Soak beans overnight, then cook and mash. This makes the thickening. Boil beef and fowl until tender and save liquor. Cut up turnip and potatoes and cook in the liquor. Cut the beef and fowl (after removing chicken meat from the bones) into 1 1/2 inch cubes.

Combine all ingredients and boil together for about one hour. Stir frequently. Serve in soup plates. It is better the second or third day. Serves 10 to 12 people.

Good for a supper party accompanied by a cold ale.

45-Game Schedule

Unbeaten Hayti puts its unblemished record on the line in the Senath-Hornersville invitational this week after a rash of upsets took its toll on the area's top teams during the Christmas Holiday classics.

The Tribe of Bill Beck go into the invitational as one of two undefeated teams in the district and will have to collide with either once-beaten North Pemiscot of Wardell, Deering's Delta C-7 Risco or Campbell before living up to its top seeded position.

SEMO's only other unbeaten quintet, the Van Buren Bulldogs, is tied up in regular scheduled action this week.

Out of the Holiday tournaments, only Leadwood lived up to its number one seeded position while Charleston and Richland failed to make the grade.

A 45-game schedule is on tap this week, starting with a 16-game card Tuesday and following with a 23 game schedule Friday and six games Saturday. Sandwiched in between all the action will be the Senath event which gets underway Wednesday with the finals Saturday.

BASKETBALL RULES
Simplified and Illustrated

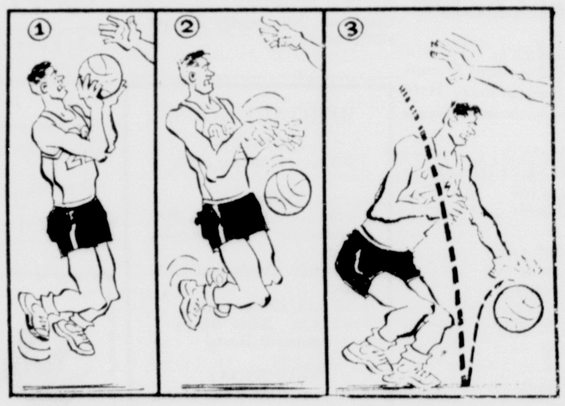

No. 4 steps with non-pivot foot, lifts pivot foot and shoots ball toward basket while pivot foot is still aloft. This is legal.

It is not legal when No. 10 lifts his pivot foot and replaces it on the floor before releasing the ball for a try. Player has traveled.

A1 while advancing toward his basket receives a pass while in the air. He alights on the left foot, jumps and then alights on the right foot, then leaps and releases the ball while he is off the floor. Legal.

After No. 22 has jumped from the floor, he drops the ball to the floor to avoid having his try blocked. When he recovers or dribbles the ball, he has committed a travelling violation.

Big Money Games

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Colts, doubted by their followers and outcasts in the American Football Conference, are on their way to the Super Bowl.

Forcing the breaks which Coach Don McCafferty said would make the difference, the Colts polished off the Oakland Raiders 27-17 to win the AFC title Sunday and debunk charges they had yet to prove themselves.

Now it's on to Miami for a Jan. 17 Super Bowl date against the Dallas Cowboys, who defeated the San Francisco 49ers 17-10 for the National Conference championship, and a shot at another $15,000 prize.

The Colts will collect a minimum $8,500 for whipping the favored Raiders, but there was more money at stake.

"Maybe this will wipe out our game against Kansas City which millions of people saw on television," said Dick Bielski, coach of Baltimore's receivers.

Even Baltimore fans were willing to write off the Colts after they were manhandled 44-24 by the Chiefs in the second game of the season.

Nothing the Colts did later changed the early season opinions. Even when they won the Eastern Division with an 11-2-1 record, the Colts were accused of having faced patsy opposition.

In addition, as one of three former National Football League teams switched to the AFC with 10 onetime American League teams, the Colts were considered outsiders.

But the Raiders were the last of the old AFL teams left, and the Super Bowl will match two longtime NFL rivals.

A 68-yard touchdown pass from 37-year-old John Unitas to Ray Perkins, after Oakland had pulled to within 20-17 early in the fourth quarter, sent the Raiders down to defeat.

BALTIMORE—AFC Championship, take 2: defeat.

Perkins, bothered by a broken toe and suffering from a fever which limited his practice during the week to 20 minutes, broke free as the Colts used four wide receivers in a play pattern tried for the first time this year.

George Blanda, Oakland's 43year-old wonder whose last-minute heroics during the regular season brought the Raiders to the title game, rallied them again after starting quarterback Daryle Lamonica was hurt in the second period.

But the Colts moved ahead to stay on rookie Jim O'Brien's second field goal, and then made it 20-10 when rookie Norm Bulaich scored his second eight yards behind the line and wasn't intercepted.

Interceptions and rugged running by a rookie also played key roles in the Dallas victory at San Francisco.

Rookie Duane Thomas, who gained 143 yards on 27 carries, broke a 3-3 tie with a 13-yard TD run in the third period after linebacker Lee Roy Jordan intercepted a John Brodie pass.

On the next series, Brodie fired a long pass which Mel Renfro intercepted and set up a 62-yard Dallas drive culminated by a 5-yard TD pass from Craig Morton to Walter Garrison, which made it 17-3.

BALTIMORE—AFC championship, take 3: 17-3.

Brodie, the NFC's leading passer in 1970, later tossed a 26-yard scoring strike to Dick Witcher, but that was the last gasp for the 49ers who have yet to win a title in 25 years.

Dallas, meanwhile, reached the Super Bowl for the first time after making league playoffs for the fifth consecutive year.

The Colts, who lost to the New York Jets in their only previous Super Bowl appearance, sent the AFC's leading passer to the bench when end Bubba Smith smacked down Lamonica and injured his groin.

"This is as big if not bigger than playing in the Super Bowl," defensive tackle Billy Ray Smith said of Sunday's game. "No one thought we could do it."

"We didn't rush Blanda as hard as we should," Billy Ray said, 'but we were set up more against the run."

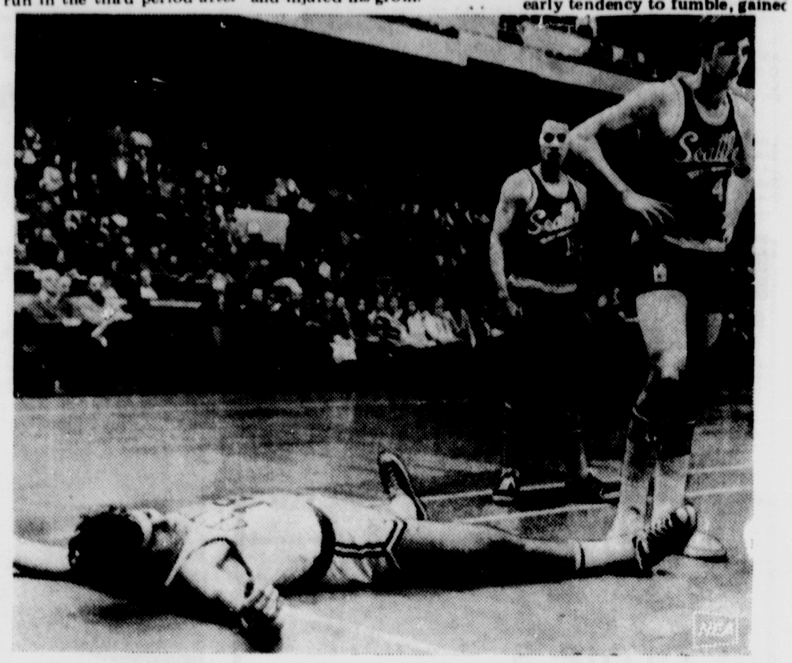

Blanda completed 17 of 32 passes for 271 yards, including a 38-yarder to Fred Biletnikoff in the third period which tied it 10-10 and a 15-yarder to Warren Wells to pull Oakland to within 20-17. Both scoring drives went 80 yards.

"This was our best performance of the year," McCafferty said. "But I don't think we've reached our peak since making adjustments after we suffered some injuries. Our best football is still ahead of us."

Bulaich, Baltimore's No. 1 draft pick who blossomed late after overcoming injuries and an early tendency to fumble, gained 71 yards on 22 carries. Unitas completed just 11 of 30 passes for 245 yards, but lost only touchdown.

Baltimore's rugged defense which blanked the Cincinnati Bengals 17-0 in the playoff opener, dumped Oakland quarterbacks five times for 48 yards in losses and picked off three interceptions.

In addition, Sam Havrilak of the Baltimore special team recovered a fumbled punt by George Atkinson to set up a second period TD which put the Colts ahead 10-0.

FORSOOTH!—Dave Cowens appears more like an aspiring Shakespearean actor than a basketball player. But he just wanted to make certain that the referees didn't miss the fact that he had been fouled. Looking on are Pete Cross (right) and Len Wilkens of the Seattle Sonics.

Who's No. 1

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — In a lastminute maneuver for the national championship title, Notre Dame Coach Ara Parseghian said Sunday his Fighting Irish "accepted a greater challenge" in playing Texas in the Cotton Bowl than did Nebraska in the Orange Bowl.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the Cotton Bowl said the selection committee had asked Nebraska not to be too hasty in accepting the Orange Bowl bid. The committee had asked Nebraska to forestall its decision for a week.

The Associated Press' final poll this week will name the national champion.

Parseghian admits the Irish have a slim chance at the title since Notre Dame ended the season with a 10-1 record while Nebraska finished with 10-0-1.

But, Parseghian said, "The automatic assumption that they should be No. 1 disturbs me. Our team should get a great deal of credit for accepting the challenge of playing the topranked team."

Texas was No. 1 in the last regular season poll but Notre Dame shot them out of the saddle New Year's Day with a 24-11 victory. Friday's victory also ended the Longhorns' 30-game winning streak.

"Nebraska was definitely considered strongly," the Cotton Bowl spokesman said. "We didn't issue them an invitation, but we definitely let them know we were interested. We told them we probably wouldn't be able to make a decision for another week or so but apparently they weren't interested enough to wait."

However, contacted at his Miami Beach hotel this morning, Nebraska Coach Bob Devaney said: "I'd like to know who that spokesman was. No one wasked us to wait a week.

"I called Parseghian to try to find out where they were going to play, but he couldn't tell me. He just didn't know at the time. The bowl people didn't give us the time," he added.

"We couldn't monkey around for a week having the kids thinking about bowl games, so we decided on the Orange Bowl the following day," he said.

Under NCAA rules, Nebraska was able to accept a bowl bid a week earlier than Notre Dame because Nebraska's season ended Nov. 21 while the Irish didn't finish the season until Nov. 28. Rules permit a team to be offered a bid a week before the end of its regular season.

The Cornhuskers were commited to the Orange Bowl Nov. 14. The next week the Irish beat Louisiana State 3-0 and, one day later, they voted to go to the Cotton Bowl for a shot at higher-ranked Texas.

"I think Notre Dame may have lost a little glamor by that 3-0 win," the Cotton Bowl spokesman said. "I've got to say that hurt their appeal somewhat. They were supposed to be the No 2 or No. 3 best scoring team in the country and Joe Theismann was throwing the ball all over the place. We ust might have invited Nebraska."

Devaney said, "It's pretty plain to me that we're the nation's beat team. Even the Pope couldn't vote Notre Dame No. 1!"

But Devaney was just pouring fuel on Parseghian's fire.

"We accepted the greater challenge," said the Notre Dame coach. "They accepted the Orange Bowl without krowing who their opponent would be and they knew it couldn't be an unbeaten tem. We knew we'd play the Southwest Conference champion, with the strong possibility of an unbeaten winner in Texas."

"We also had an invitation from the Orange Bowl. But we knew we couldn't be No. 1 by going to the Orange Bowl. Someone else then would have had to beat Texas," Parseghian said.

When the smoke cleared, Notre Dame had lost to Southern California 38-28 on Nov. 28 and Nebraska, who had earlier tied Southern Cal 21-21, beat LSU 17-12 in the Orange Bowl.

Parseghian said the voters should give a detailed look at the statistical accomplishments of each team.

MU's Gray Stars In East-West Game

OAKLAND (AP) — Don Pastornin and Leon Burns played their collegiate football in the so-called small college ranks, but both were big reasons the West beat the East in the 45th annual Shrine charity game.

Pastornin threw a touchdown pass to Missouri's Mel Gray on a play covering 45 yards and also contributed a 42-yard field goal, longest by placement in the history of the East-West competition, as the West won 17-13 Saturday.

The 6-foot-3 quarterback from Santa Clara won honors as the game's outstanding offensive player.

Burns, a 225-pounder and twice a Little All-American from Long Beach State, was a late addition to the squad. He came on to rush for 88 yards on 22 carries and also caught a pass for another 22.

Of the Santa Clara product, Coach Eddie Crowder of Colorado, who headed the West staff, declared, "He's a remarkable football player, excellent now and he'll get better."

It was Crowder who put in the play which electrified the Oakland Coliseum crowd of 54,000 as the West scored on a 99-yard return of the opening kickoff.

Norm Thompson of Utah took the kick at the one and reversed to Gray, who scampered the remaining 87.

"We scored twice with the play at Colorado in 1969 and a player with Gray's speed 9.2 for the 100 can go all the way if we get him some running room."

Despite Gray's relatively small stature, Crowder thinks he also will be one of the 1970 collegiate crop with a good chance of making it in professional football.

"Anyone with that sort of speed could be successful," the Colorado coach declared.

Devaney Wants No. 1

MIAMI (AP) — The Nebraska Cornhuskers wanted to play Notre-Dame — then ranked No. 1— in the Orange Bowl. But, says Husker Coach Bob Devaney, the Fighting Irish lost their crown and they simply don't deserve it back now.

"I can't see how the Associated Press could vote for anyone but Nebraksa. We were No. 3 when we went in, but we won the bowl game," said Devaney whose team defeated Orange Bowl opponent Louisiana State 17-12.

"Notre Dame is a fine team." he added in a telephone interview early this morning. "I think they should be among the top two or three maybe, but I don't see how they could be first."

Devaney's remarks followed a statement made Sunday by Notre Dame Coach Ara Parseghian who said his team "accepted a greater challenge by playing No. 1-ranked Texas the Cotton Bowl than Nebraska did in going to the Orange Bowl."

"He's full of B. S. to make statements like that," said Devaney. "Notre Dame was only able to score a field goal against LSU on their own field. And I don't think Notre Dame would like to have another go round with LSU."

Parseghian feels his team should be strongly considered in the final Associated Press polls this week which will determine thee nations national collegiate football champion. Including thier 24-11 Cotton Bowl victory over Texas, Notre Dame's record is 10-1. But Nebraska is the only major undefeated team with a 11-0-1 showing.

FORGETFUL FIANCE

DERBY, England (AP) — After all the arrangements had been made for the marriage of Len Taylor and Sandra Dabbs, Taylor forgot to turn up for the ceremony. Guests searched the Derbyshire town in vain before police telephoned to say that Sandra's fiance was in the hospital with a bruised head — and he had lost his memory after a fall.

Big 8 Race

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Big Eight Conference basketball teams, except for favored Kansas and Colorado, start playing for keeps Saturday when the chase for the league title gets under way.

Oklahoma State and Iowa State will raise the curtain on the conference campaign in an afternoon contest at Ames, Iowa. The game will be televised. In the other openers, Nebraska is at Kansas State and Oklahoma at Missouri Saturday night.

Kansas, ranked No. 12 in the nation, sees its first conference action Jan. 18 against Iowa State at Lawrence, Kan., and Colorado makes its debut Jan. 16 at Oklahoma.

As the conference season approaches, Coach Ted Owens of Kansas still isn't satisfied with his team even though the Jayhawks have a 9-1 record and have won both the Jayhawk Classic and the Big Eight Conference pre-season tournament in which they knocked off Nebraska 72-52 in the finals.

"We have a long way to go to be an outstanding basketball team," Owens says. "No doubt we've been inconsistent. A lot of this can be ironed out by Jan. 18.

"I think the team which wins the Big Eight championship is the team which improves the most in the weeks ahead."

Nebraska, 10-2, is expected to give Kansas the most trouble in the race for the conference crown. Coach Joe Cipriano admits the Cornhuskers "are the best shooting team since I've been at Nebraska."

Oklahoma, 8-2, won the tournament's consolation championship and looms as the darkhours in the conference race. The Sooners, although lacking a big star, have tremendous balance in scoring and Clifford Ray's brilliant rebounding.

Colorado, 6-4, has Cliff Meely, and he alone makes the Buffs a big threat although Coach Sox Walseth says Colorado is "not a real strong team."

After these four clubs — Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Colorado — there isn't too much difference in the teams. Defending champion Kansas State, 5-6, enters the race with guard problems and not much depth, and Coach Jack Hartman says the Wildcats "would like to be a little quicker."

Oklahoma State, 4-7, and Iowa State, 3-8, both have small teams. Oklahoma State didn't win a game in the Big Eight tourney but new Coach Sam Aubrey found out that the Cowboys have some excellent reserves in Steve Uthoff, Jerry Merida and Donnie Wheeler.

Iowa State proved a troublemaker in the tournament. The Cyclones, described by Coach Glen Anderson as "the youngest club I've ever had," upset Oklahoma and lost to Kansas in overtime.

Missouri, 8-4, may get better as John Brown rounds into form. Brown missed the team's first eight games because of an injury. Coach Norm Stewart says the Tigers haven't really "adjusted to having Brown in the line-up." Stewart adds the Tigers "know what they're faced with. It's an awfully strong league, awfully strong."

Two teams play tonight in non-conference tests. Iowa State goes to Northern Illinois, and Colorado continues its tour of the West Coast by stopping off at San Diego State.

Only Colorado has seen action since the tournament ended last Wednesday night. The Buffs lost at Long Beach State Saturday night 84-62. Meely scored 28 points but got little help from anyone else.

The standings:

	All Games W	L
Kansas	9	1
Nebraska	10	2
Oklahoma	8	2
Missouri	8	4
Colorado	6	4
Kansas State	5	6
Oklohoma State	4	7
Iowa State	3	8

Conference season begins Saturday.

All-Stater Carl Gross of Cape Girardeau Central was another of the 10 Missouri players singled out for the honor by Sportswriters and Sportscasters across the state. Gross was an all-state linebacker. He is 6-foot-4 and 220 pounds.

The District's leading scorer, with over 160 points, was the fourth SEMO gridder to receive the honor. He was Joe Abt of Ste. Genevieve, a 6-foot-1, 190 pound back.

Two Missouri athletes were selected for the top 100. Both from the Kansas City area. Named were Pete Simmons of Centralia and Michael fagan of Rockhurst. Simmons was a 5-foot-9, 274 pound guard while Fagan, a combination Fullback and linebacker, was 195 pounds and 6-foot-1,190 pound back.

Medical Center Rates Rise

COLUMBIA–The University of Missouri-Columbia Medical Center has been unable to escape the increasing costs involved in the provision of health care, Dr. William D. Mayer, dean and director, said in announcing today increases in its charge schedule, now in effect.

Nation-wide hospital costs increased 17 percent last year, Dr. Mayer said. "Costs have gone up primarily because of higher wage levels and higher prices charged for the supplies and equipment required in the provision of health care."

And, Dr. Mayer pointed out, care in large medical centers and teaching hospitals frequently includes specialized services and equipment not available in many smaller community hospitals.

In the past, the schedule of charges for services provided in University Hospital has been based on the estimated cost of the provision of those services, Dr. Mayer said. The same policy is being carried out in the current rate increases, he added.

Room rates will be increased by $9 per day and charges for many ancillary services will also go up. It is estimated that the average charge per patient per day will increase by $18.

A private room in University Hospital – including general nursing care, food service, housekeeping, linens, supplies, and some medications – will now cost $55 a day, as compared with a charge of $46 during the past year. A two-bed room will cost $52, up from $43; a four-bed ward $49 per bed, up from $40. Intensive care charges are generally increased by $10 per day.

Operating room charges, anesthesia, prosthetic and brace devices, casts, laboratory tests, and emergency room visits are also affected by the rate increases. Most lab tests increase 50 cents.

Whereas the emergency room fee has been $6 per visit, it will go to $7. Other examples of increased rates: a red blood count will cost $2.50 instead of $2; blood smear for malaria, $4.50 instead of $4; a long leg cast $10 instead of $9; and a laminated plastic neck brace $80 instead of $75.

Administrators of the Medical Center estimate that the increased charges will result in additional revenue of about $250,000 between January 1 and June 30.

"This revision of rates is only one measure instituted by the Medical Center to relieve severe financial strain caused by escalating operating costs during a year in which the State Legislature provided no increase in funds over those of the previous yes," Dr. Mayer said.

Cutbacks in salaries and wages are expected to effect a major savings in the second half of the fiscal year, Dr. Mayer said, "but contrary to rumors of many layoffs among employees I want to make it clear that much of the savings in wages is occurring because we are not replacing employees as they retire or resign."

There have been some layoffs, he said, but only a small number in relation to the total employment at the Medical Center. The hospital administrators' office is expected to make a statement next week on the current situation and what is anticipated in future employment at the Medical Center.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Bed Gnawer Is Foiled By Piece of Rubber Hose

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY and Mrs. O. S.—We found a good way to protect both the finish on the end of our grandson's crib and him at the same time. My husband took a piece of old rubber garden hose which I had washed and disinfected well, split it down one side with his pocket knife and slipped this over the end of the bed. It did not slip off and was easy to wash. We also put one of these over the old-fashioned sharp metal foot scraper in the back yard so the kiddies would not fall and get hurt on it. My husband has died but how happy he would be to know that someone had used his good idea.—LILA

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—We would like to give a Jack and Jill party for our soon-to-be-married daughter and her fiance. I would appreciate knowing how one goes about this. If any readers have ever given such a party I would appreciate hearing about it.—DORIS

DEAR POLLY—My Pointer is for those who wear different-colored headbands with wiglets or when the hair is fixed to look like a wiglet. I had only two scarves and could not afford more so had to find a substitute. Looking through my husband's old ties from years back I found lots and lots of beautiful ones to wear as headbands or also as belts with pants suits. If the ties are too long, cut out the narrow center and sew the ends back together again.—LILY

DEAR POLLY — My 21-month-old daughter has very long hair. It was always getting in her food when she was feeding herself until I started to snap her bib OVER her hair in the back and now it stays out of the way and in place. This would also work for older little girls who still wear bibs.—BARBARA

11th HOUR TAX PACKAGE APPROVED BY LEGISLATURE

JEFFERSON CITY, MO. — Nearly two years of frustration over revenue matters ended last week when the Missouri legislature approved a $97 million income and alcoholic tax increase.

The action came when the fourth special session of the 75th General Assembly was in its 48th day, less than 36 hours before the emergency tax measures were to become effective Jan. 1.

The House rejected two conference committee compromises before finally reaching a middle ground with the Senate.

It took a historic vote by the Senate to close off a filibuster by Sen. Earl R. Blackwell (D-Hillsboro) Dec. 20 to clear the way for that chamber to act on the income tax. The cloture vote was believed the first in the Senate's 150-year history. It broke more than 20 continuous hours of stalling debate by Blackwell and three supporters.

The Hillsboro Democrat and friends were among a very few legislators who denied a need for more state revenue.

Although they were sympathetic to the need for tax increases, many legislators balked at approving any income tax hike, since voters crushed this tax alternative in a statewide referendum April 7.

The original tax measure, submitted by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, had called for a 2 to 6 per cent sliding scale on individual rates, up from the 1 to 4 per cent rate. Hearnes also had asked for a corporate income tax increase to 5 per cent from its old 2 per cent level.

The Senate accepted this rate schedule, but demanded a Republican-sponsored one-year limit on the new tax. The House asked for a 1.5 to 6 per cent scale, giving a bigger break to lower income families, but opposed the one-year restriction because it would mean that lawmakers would have to face the same revenue problem in the regular session that begins Jan. 6.

There was no disagreement in either chamber on the corporate tax increase.

The compromise finally adopted the House's rates and the Senate's one-year limit.

The alcoholic beverage bill doubles the rate on beer and wine and hikes the liquor tax 66.3 per cent. Beer goes up to $1.86 per barrel, which works out to about a 9 cent jump for a 12-ounce six pack.

Wine increases to 30 cents per gallon. The liquor tax was compromised at $2 per gallon, an increase of 80 cents.

While finally reaching an agreement on the tax increases, the Legislature failed to agree on an emergency appropriation bill to provide the Welfare Department with the $3.9 million it needs to avoid a $157 million cutback in federal funds this year. The state is required by federal statute to fund welfare programs at the level of the previous year to qualify for federal assistance. A hearing on the matter is scheduled for later this month in Jefferson City with Health, Education nd Welfare officials.

Sen. T. D. McNeal (D-St. Louis) said he feared a $3 million portion of the bill rejected for Medicare would cause 200,000 Missourians to lose all of their assistance.

The Legislature will have to act quickly during the regular session to avoid such an evenuality.

The Legislature also did not act on the $250 million capital improvements bond requested by the governor. That measure will probably be considered during the upcoming session.

I-55 North May Be Completed in 1971

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Possibly before the new year ends — just possibly — motorists will be able to travel the entire way to St. Louis on an interstate highway.

The encouraging word came from Wm. H. Shaw, district engineer for the State Highway Department.

He quickly qualified the statement, however, and stressed that it presently is only a possibility. Actual target date is six months later, in mid - 1972, he said.

Shaw added he doubted the highway could be fully complete all the way to St. Louis, but said it could be far enough along to be opened to traffic.

It all depends on how 1971 proves out as a year for construction. And it would take a near ideal year, plus satisfactory labor relations to be far enough along for opening next holiday season.

While Shaw said he was putting himself out on a limb in even mentioning the possibility of running so far ahead of schedule, the progress so far from here to St. Louis is such that even in an average year it is likely the highway will be carrying traffic before mid - 1972.

At present, work is in varying stages from Fruitland to Festus, with an approximate six - mile stretch of highway south of Festus to be opened to traffic in the near future.

That will leave only the northern portion of Cape County, all of Perry and Ste. Genevieve Counties to be completed on the northward leg. Work on these stretches ranges from 50 per cent or so complete to about 3 per cent, Shaw said, but progress rates will likely even out in the year ahead.

A major problem in opening I-55 to traffic as the work progresses is the lack of access to Highway 61, he noted. When the present six miles south of Festus is opened, he noted that there will be little opportunity to open another stretch until the highway extends to Perryville.

Perryville is the target of the construction from the south as well. Although it is possible several miles in Cape County could be ready for traffic next summer or fall, there is no road from I-55 to Highway 61 that could serve adequately to link the two, Shaw said.

In Cape County, the only possibility would be Route KK which runs west from Old Appleton, and it is a crooked, narrow road not designed to handle the kind of traffic loads that would go over it. Furthermore, more than two miles of it would have to be traveled and it is doubtful any time or safety would be gained by this routing.

The possiblilites in Perry County are much the same, Shaw said, with the first feasible link=up with Highway 61 at Perryville. So if work progresses well next year, the entire jump from Fruitland to Perryville will be made in one step.

Highway 61 north of Perryville tends to follow the line of the Mississippi river, dipping eastward for St. Marys and Ste. Genevieve. I-55, on the other hand, has a more northwesterly course and thus the possibilities for opening separate stretches up that way are limited.

Should there be a long delay in completion of any segment of the highway, however, Mr. Shaw said he did not think the highway department would let completed sections of the highway remain unused indefinitely.

Work right now is at a standstill so far as earth - moving is concerned, but is continuing on bridges, culverts and other structures as weather permits.

Contractors are generally using colder days for steel work and taking advantage of warmer days to pour concrete. And then there is the maintenance and repair of equipment needed for efficient operation when the weather breaks next spring.

Work in Cape County is, on the whole, 32 to 50 per cent complete. In Perry County, work on three contracts is from three to 17 per cent completed, Shaw said.

When completed northward, there will remain only a 13 - mile stretch between Memphis, Tenn., and St. Louis that is not open.

Shaw said from Hayti to Steele, the right of way has been secured and the project will likely be put out for bids next summer. In the meantime, he said the deteriorating surface of Highway 61 in that stretch is to be improved under a contract to be let in January.

Other interstate projects in the district include the I-57 crossing of the Mississippi River north of Cairo and I-155 from Caruthersville to Dyersburg, Tennessee.

Shaw said work on the sub - structure for the I-155 bridge is past the half - way point and a contract for the super - structure will be let as present work nears completion.

On I-57, Shaw said Illinois has opened bids, but they seemed high and therefore may be rejected. When this project is finally under contract, Shaw said it will take four to five years to complete.

On the Missouri side, right of way is complete to tie in with the bridge from the present end of I-57 near Charleston.

M & H Seeks Listing on Big Board

MEMPHIS — Memphis - based Malone & Hyde, Inc., announced plans for a stock offering which likely would clear the way for applying for listing on the New York Stock Exchange.

J.R. Hyde III, president of the largest wholesale grocery distributor in the South, said M&H plans to file a registration statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission about mid - January.

The proposed secondary offering of common stock would come from "certain stockholders" of the company, according to a spokesman.

The primary purpose of the offering will be to increase the number of "round - lot" stockholders and thereby meet the statistical listing requirements of the NYSE the company said.

(A "round lot" is a unit of trading or its multiple.) On the NYSE the unit of trading is generally 100 shares.)

It is thought the M&H offering would have to be about 75,000 shares in order to meet the round - lot requirement for membership on the Big Board.

"It is anticipated that after the offering these requirements will be met; and if this is the case, the company then plans to apply for the listing of its common stock on the exchange."

M&H shares, now traded on the over - the - counter market, closed yesterday 15 23½ bid, 244 asked.

Meanwhile, the Jan. 1 issue of Forbes ranks M&H fourth in its industry for a five - year return on equity (defined by the financial magazine to mean the average profit management made on stockholder investment over five years).

The latest 12 - month return on equity — 18.5 per cent — puts M&H first among the same list of 35 wholesalers, according to the survey.

In the same group, Malone's 15.9 per cent annual earnings per share growth put the Memphis corporation third in its industry, according to Forbes.

Forgive us our debts.
—(Matt. 6:12)

Why is forgiveness so important? Why did Jesus put so much stress on it? Forgiveness is important, because it is a way in which we can express greater love, divine love. Our human love finds it easy to love those of whom we approve, but we should make an effort to love enough to forgive those who have been unloving toward us. God says, "As you forgive, so are you forgiven."

Library Loses Its Wagon For Christmas

LILBOURN — Twas the morn before Christmas, when all through the library, not a person could account for the station wagon because it had been stolen the night before.

It had been the custom to park the library's 1966 beige Ford station wagon at the library's back door on Main Street in Portageville, but Thursday morning no one knew anything about it.

Marshall Dial, county librarian, said that he came to work and noticed that the vehicle was not at the back door, but assumed that some member of the staff had occasion to use it that morning. Later, when all staff members were present, he asked who had the station wagon. The answer was no one.

A night police officer said that he saw the station wagon at the intersection at 9:30 Wednesday night. Having no reason to think otherwise, he thought that some staff member was returning from showing a movie for some civic club.

Dial said that highway patrolman expressed the thought that the vehicle may never be recovered as many stolen vehicles are taken outside Missouri, disassembled and sold in parts. Dial said that the keys had not been left in the ignition.

The librarian said that gasoline had been taken from staff vehicle before, but this was the first time a vehicle had been stolen. Gas caps with locks have been used by the library for several months now.

Stock Offering

J. R. Hyde, III, President of Malone & Hyde, Inc. announced today that the Company planned to file a registration statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission around the middle of January, 1971, relating to a proposed secondary offering of common stock by certain stockholders of the Company. The primary purpose of the offering will be to increase the number of "round Lot" stockholders so as to meed the statistical listing requirements of the New York Stock Exchange. It is anticipated that after the offering, these requirements will be met; and if this is the case, the Company plans to apply for the listing of its common stock on the Exchange.

REMODEL YOUR KITCHEN IN TIME FOR THE HOLIDAY FESTIVITIES

Comedians can tell all the jokes they want about modern families subsisting on tv dinners -- Mom knows better. She still spends a lot of time in the kitchen preparing meals to satisfy hearty appetites. That's why kitchen convenience is so important.

The kitchen is also injoying a revival as a social center despite the continued popularity of the family room. It's where families like to take their meals together, the neighborhood ladies gather for their coffee break and family members stop for a snack after an evening out.

If yours is an old - fashioned kitchen, why not have it modernized as a family Christmas present? This is a good time for it, according to the Plumbing -Heating -Cooling Information Bureau. Many plumbing contractors who specialize in kitchens and bathrooms offer special prices during the so -called off -season winter months.

If you're planning a new kitchen, here are some pointers designed to make it a mom - saver as well as a place to be enjoyed by the entire family:

1. Make sure the three work centers -- namely the sink, refrigerator and range -- have plenty of counter space.

2. Cabinets should extend to the ceiling. True, the top shelves are hardto reach but they're a good place to store seldom - used items, so why let the space go to waste?

3. Make sure the counters are the right height for the lady of the house, rather than for the so - called average woman of 5'4".

4. Have double - bowl sink installed. It will multiply convenience manifold.

5. Include an electric dishwasher. It will save hours of drudgery and do a better job too because it uses water hotter than human hands can stand.

6. A food waste disposer is an excellent investment. It will help keep the kitchen clean and sanitary.

7. To make the kitchen a true social center, include instant hot water and ice water dispensers for serving instant drinks and hot soups, and an automatic ice maker.

Medical Center To Close 36 Beds to Save

COLUMBIA, -- Two floors of McHaney Hall, used primarily as a rehabilitation center of the University of Missouri - Columbia Medical Center, will be closed as part of the solution to that institution's fiscal problems, Dr. William D. Mayer, dean and director of the Medical Center, said today.

The closing of these floors, representing a reduction of 36 beds, is estimated to save approximately $130,000 between January 4 and June 30, 1971.

The reduction of patient care units was one of several steps recently approved by the University Board of Curators in a plan to absorb the $2.2 million deficit which the Medical Center faces in the present fiscal year.

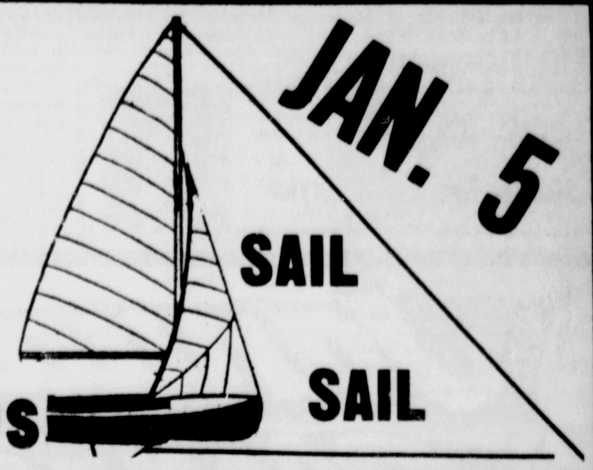

The units to be closed are currently used in the care of hospitalized patients (in - patients) assigned to the department of physical medicine and rehabilitation. The savings will be effected by consolidating the care of these patients within the remaining 409 beds of the University Hospital. Planning is currently under way to establish a staffing pattern for patient care within the budgetary restrictions.

The three remaining floors in McHaney Hall will continue to be used for out - patient rehabilitation treatment and for office space.

Formerly a women's dormitory for nurses and medically - oriented students, McHaney Hall was reorganized into a medical education rehabilitation center early in 1968.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Pentagon Worries About U.S. Nuclear Weapons Around World; They Could Be Seized By Anti-American Radicals, Some Fear; Missiles Kept Moving To Reduce Danger Of Attack By Enemy

WASHINGTON — There is growing concern in the backroom of the Pentagon over our ability to protect the nuclear weapons we have scattered around the world.

Plots have been reported by anti-American radicals to seek out and seize U.S. nuclear sites in Europe.

When the military junta took over Greece in April, 1967, junta troops temporarily surrounded one stockpile of nuclear warheads in Greece They withdrew, of course, without incident. But the Pentagon brass wonder nervously what would happen if a hostile coup should seize control of a country where U.S.warheads are located.

Adding to the apprehension, the GIs guarding the nuclear sites not only are inexperienced but some have been proslyted by anti-war groups. More than one deserter, including one who disappeared behind the communist curtain, is reported to have spent time at a nuclear location.

The troop turnover in Europe, meanwhile, has been so great that only green soldiers often have been available to guard the sites.

Throughout spy-infested Europe, our nuclear warheads are kept in scattered stockpiles at the mercy of friendly but foreign governments, located in some areas where every fifth pair of eyes belongs to a communist.

The purpose is not only to bring Soviet targets within range of our medium-range missiles but to discourage the Soviets ever from overshooting Europe and striking only American targets. They must knock out all our retaliatory forces, as the Japanese tried to do at Pearl Harbor, or we would bounce back with devastating counterattacks. Our nuclear sites in Europe, therefore, multiply the number of Pearl Harbors the Russians must destroy.

By law, we can't even show our allies the nuclear weapons they permit us to keep on their soil. We train their crews to handle the missiles but the warheads remain invisible to all but American eyes.

However, a high Pentagon official confessed to this column: "Let's not kid ourselves. These governments know where our nuclear fireworks are hidden. They may not know the exact buildings, but they know the locations." This was borne out by the Greek experience.

To keep the stockpiles secure, we continually rotate them. We might ship some nuclear warheads, say, from Point A to Point B. Before they reach B, secret orders may be flashed to shift them instead to Point C.

"We never leave nuclear weapons in one place for long," explained the official. "We assume every hiding place will eventually be discovered. By shifting and shuttling, we hope to keep a few days ahead of the communists."

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES

Hughes Rescues — Friends of billionaire Howard Hughes were so certain he had been bustled off to the Bahamas against his will that they plotted to send an armed rescue party to bring him back to Nevada. Now they have decided to use the courts to compel his return. They still don't believe he went to the Bahamas for a vacation. This seems a long way to go for a change of penthouses, and he has never been seen outside his penthouse in either Las Vegas or the Bahamas.

Wall Street Watch — Congress will keep a critical eye upon the stock market next year. President Nixon, eager to get the economy booming again, is taking steps to increase the money supply and the production rate. This should have a hypodermic effect upon the stock market. Key Congressmen want to make sure the investors are adequately protected. They also want to watch the impact of the great institutional investors — upon the market. The House Commerce Committee, which has jurisdiction over the securities industry, can be expected to hold exhaustive hearings.

For the Birds — Simthsonian head C. Dillon Ripley claims in a published statement that he used money for a "private" grant for his questionable pleasure cruise this summer on the Aegean, not "public" funds as we reported in this column. This sort of dissembling by the distinguished ornithologist is for the birds. All such "private" restricted grants are administered by the public institution Ripley heads. Although sometimes in separate bank accounts, the grants are all under the Smithsonian and are part of its funds. In his statement Ripley also failed to deal with the public funds he spent to get himself over to Greece and back.

Sleuths Squabble — Sen. Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, held a recent hearing on drug problems among the military in Southeast Asia. Compared to previous revelations, it was a bust. This column has now learned why.

The Republican and Democratic investigators, sent over by the committee, squabbled so much they couldn't get their work done. They also depended on the Army to give them much of the information against itself.

Donuts for Sheriffs — A reader in Macon, Ga., asked us to investigate a rumor that Georgia bonding companies have been entertaining sheriffs, whose friendship is good for business. It's true that the Alstate Bonding Company served $80.49 worth of coffee and donuts to about 60 sheriffs, their wives and guests, at the Georgia Sheriffs Association's midwinter conference in Macon earlier this month A-1 Bonding Service also had a hospitality suite at the Dempsey Motor Hotel for the sheriffs. Explained Ernest Genone, a spokesman for Alstate Bonding: "The only purpose was so that the sheriffs would know our name when we call them."

BOBCAT BOUNTY

JOHN GOULD in the
Christian Science Monitor
Lisbon Falls, Maine

By actual count, there are thirteen million, seven hundred and ninety- six thousand, five hundred and twenty - nine fiscal bafflements facing the Maine Legislature, which will probably be settled only by complete political reform after eventual civil turmoil, but this august (and also january to July) body spent the other afternoon debating the bobcat bounty. It was a stirring discussion, the 104th consecutive bounty bill, this being the 104th Maine Legislature.

People throughout the world, not closely in touch with Maine nuances, possibly do not know the great danger that faces humanity in this respect. The bobcat is a scourge upon the land, according to several confessed experts who urged the bounty, and unless he is systematically eliminated it will not be safe for your children to go outside and play, retail sales will dwindle, banks will have to close, railways and power companies must fail, and culture will crumble beyond recall. It just frightens you right out of your wits when you know how the whole world stands at the brink of bobcat destruction.

The Maine newspapers usually have headlines the day after one of these debates, saying, "Solons Settle bounty." Any biography I ever saw of Solon suggests this is loose usage, and does no credit to either the Greek or the newspapers, and I think the citizens of Maine, in general, neglect to embrace the outright hilarity the headlines should excite.

In my time I have read many books and attended many lectures which attempt to elucidate the democratic process, as well as several editorials, and the high intellectual level on which such is communicated has impressed me. But I have never seen a basic explanation of the bobcat bounty, so the young student may understand the complex nature of public affairs. Every person is expected to know about the executive, legislative, and judicial, but you can walk about all day and find nobody who can say with certainty just how this bounty thing works. It may be high time to expose it.

Maine, being a wilderness and recreation state, properly has a large and well - staffed department of fisheries and game. A commissioner heads it, and under his direction the duties include conservation, preservation, enforcement, education, research, and licensing. The student would presume that the bobcat question is lodged with this establishment.

But it is not. Let us gaze, instead, upon the best friend of man, the common pooch of commerce, the household dog. Every January every dog in Maine must, like aliens, report and give his name and address. And pay his statutory fee. Failing this, he is in much worse case than a human taxpayer, for the dog's existence is at stake. Of the fees thus gathered by municipalities, part stays in town to augment prosperity, and the rest is forwarded to the State House — but not to the Fish & Game Commissioner, No. To the Department of Agriculture.

In the beginning this was not strange. Maine was then well farmed, and ranging dogs often caused damage to farm animals. The Department of Agriculture would be the proper one to know about cows, sheep, swine, and poultry. So when a dog, or dogs, marauded, there was provision to pay damages to the farmer from the dog-tax fund. This part of the arrangement is still in effect. If some of my hens seem expired and I feel reimbursement might help, I call a peace officer who surveys the damage, and in time the Department of Agriculture will forward me a check.

However, now and then something happens to farm animals which cannot be blamed on the dogs. A raccoon may be the culprit. So, since the damage done by dogs never took up all the taxes they were paying, our "solons" lumped the thing, and for a long time the dogs have been paying for depredations by fishers, 'coons, foxes, bears, bobcats, owls, hawks, and assorted hen fanciers.

And the dogs have also been paying the various bounties these same solons think up from time to time. We even had a bounty, once, on the common black crow, whereby a boy with a crowcall and a good hackmatack grove could get rich quick. The most fun with a bounty, however, had to do with porcupines. Having proved that the porcupine was undermining international economics, our solons put a dog - tax price on him, and the abuses exceeded all hopes. In one town they had a good year — they took and got paid for more porcupines than exist in all the world — incredible until evidence was turned up to show that a man would take in the same porcupines over and over again until he wore them out. The dogs of Maine never murmured or repined about this handling of their funds, and the newspapers continued to use the word Solon.

This year it has been the bobcat. The state doesn't have money enough to meet its school obligations, but thanks to the dogs of Maine we may enjoy the cultural substitution of pleasant bobcat hunts.

HYDRONIC HEAT IS QUALITY TYPE

Hydronic (hot water) heat is known as a quality type. Water from a boiler is circulated through pipe to radiation in the various rooms. The heat is clean, even and draft free.

No Male Hops

Male hop flowers are banned in most European countries because they pollinate the female flowers to produce seeds that add an unpleasant bitter taste to the brewing process.

President Nixon's bad news about revised budget estimates for fiscal 1970 (ending June 30) and 1971 cuts short the hopeful trend toward budget surpluses of the past few years. From a deficit plunge of $25.2 billion in 1968, federal accounts rose to a modest surplus in 1969 which earlier this year was expected to continue. The revisions now foresee deficits for the next two years.

ABOUT THOSE NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS MADE IN DECEMBER BROKES IN JANUARY
By Lynn Todd

"I'll study harder and get on the honor roll. I'll not talk back to my parents. I'll not fight with my kid sister. I won't gossip and I will and I won't and I will and I won't..." And on and on the list goes till it fills the paper or boggles the mind. Sounc anything like your approach tc the annual New Year's resolution exercises?

If your list is as long as your arm and twice as impossible of fulfillment, the chances are that by this time you've already broken some, shattered some other, and forgottem more of them than you remembered. Fear not, oh you of good intent, for almost every other person who started January 1 with the best of intentions is exactly where you are; wondering why they took the trouble in the first place.

Does this mean that your resolutions are silly and useless and that the whole thing is a waste of time? Not at all. The start of a new year is a wonderful time to take stock. Everyone still in the process of growing into adulthood is anxious for growth and improvement. Taking stock and setting goals is the approach that works.

How, then, can you make your resolutions work for you? The first rule is not to bite off more than you can chew. Too many good intentions are just too much to deal with all at once. Make a long list, if you wish, but give priority to the two or three you consider most valuable. Concentrate on them and when you've licked them, move down the list and pick out another few for special attention. This way you'll find that your resolutions will bring some meaningful results.

No person, however dedicated, can change overnight those things he wishes to improve. The rewarding thing is progress, and it need not be revolutionary or earth shaking to make the effort very worth while.

There is no law that says you can't begin on a New Year's resolution in February or June or next September. So, if you find you've already slipped on a few, take hope. Tackle one or a few at a time. One goal accomplished is worth more than a dozen set and abandoned in desperation.

That's The Law

Truth Defense in Detectives Report

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

When Dorothy's dentist husband began spending evenings away from home, she decided he was probably sitting up with a chic friend and hired Beagle's detective agency to check on his suspected philandering. In due course, the sleuthy Mr. Beagle confirmed her suspicions and reported that Dorothy's husband was, in fact, having an affair with a sexy blonde.

Without ado, Dorothy sued for and won a divorce on the grounds of adultery and her husband, in turn, sued detective Beagle for libel.

"He had no right to make any derogatory statements about me," complained the irate dentist in court. "To report that I was having an affair with a sexy blonde was absolutely defamatory."

"What's he want from me?" responded detective Beagle. "I was hired by his wife to do a job and I did it. I only reported the tooth, the whole tooth and nothing but the tooth."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit the dentist to collect for slander?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that when a private detective is hired to check on her husband's love life and he reports back that the husband is having an affair, the husband can collect for libel only if he can prove that the detective's report is false and that it was submitted with malice. Rotary Study Awards Available

The Rotary Club is seeking young men and women from this area to apply for a Rotary Foundation educational award, according to Jim Green, club president.

The Rotary Foundation is a non-profit organization supported by contributions from Rotarians and Rotary clubs around the world. Since 1947, the Foundation has awarded more than $10 million for its programs, and more than 4,000 young men and women have gone to a country other than their own for a year of study.

Three types of educational awards are offered by the Foundation: Graduate Fellowship, for 20 to 28-year-olds with a bachelor's degree or its equivalent; Undergraduate schorlarship, for 18 to 24-year-olds with a minimum of two years of university level work; and teachnical trainee, for men and women, 21 to 35, with a secondary education and at least two years' working experience. In addition, grants are made to teams of young business and professional men who spend two months abroad in a district-sponsored study program.

An awardee receives funds to cover costs of round-trip transportation, tuition, meals, lodging, intensive language training, if necessary, and funds for educational travel during the year. Awardees are expected to act as ambassadors of good will for their country through informal contacts and through appearances before Rotary clubs and other civic and educational groups.

Each of the more than 300 districts of Rotary International each year may submit at least one candidate for an award and may apply for a group study exchange grant. The Rotary Club of Sikeston seeks a candidate for a Rotary Foundation award.

In the past, Rotary Foundation awards have been given to Alice Martin Kopp, daughter of Mrs. T. A. Martin, who studied, in 1959, in Paris; Eddie Mc Amis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Z. E. Mc Amis, and Kathryn Meredith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Meredith, have been approved for the awards.

Information about the educational awards is available from Cliff Morris, 417 South Kingshighway. Application deadline is March 15.

Do not overcome by evil, but overcome evil with good. —(Rom. 12:21).

Jesus emphasized that we should not resist evil. Not understanding the working of the law of good, some persons have thought: if we don't resist evil, we will be overcome by it. Instead of resisting evil we should focus our energies on our objective; and with the strength of mind, body and spirit that God has given us, we seek to bring about good to the best of our ability and understanding.

Voters to Ask Danforth For Opinion on Briggs

By DAN D. WHITTLE

BENTON — Abram Hirschowitz, Oran, chairman of the Scott County Voters League said this morning the organization is going to ask state Attorney General John Danforth for an opinion on the residency of Magistrate Lloyd G. Briggs of Birmingham.

Hirschowitz said this is the "non-partisan" organization's first official act since being organized one month ago. Twenty-five persons comprise the league, which was orgainzed to assure better county government, according to the chairman.

"There have been too many loose ends in the past that needed looking into," he said. "We are going to take a close look at all political activities."

Briggs has lived in Alabama since 1965. He is a licensed real estate salesman there, which requires him to be a bona fide resident of that state.

Briggs contends he is a Missouri resident. Missouri law requires magistrate candidates to live in the state nine consecutive months prior to their elections. Briggs was elected in November. He did not live in Missouri the nine months prior to November.

Briggs took office Friday.

A part of the controversy surrounding Briggs, was settled this morning with payment of $449.40 to the Scott county court.

The funds date back to when Briggs, who was elected magistrate in November, served as circuit clerk. The funds are reflected in an audit made by the state from Jan. 1, 1959, to Dec. 31, 1964.

The acceptance of the check was the first offical action taken by the new county court. The court was advised by a letter from Thomas Gilmore, prosecuting attorney of Scott County, the funds should be deposited by the county clerk and then paid over to Lynn Ingram, circuit clerk, for credit to the account involving court cost deposits that are held in trust by the circuit clerk.

In a letter to the court from Briggs, he said:

"As I have previously advised the county court, the audit in its present state does not indicate what amount of these open items pertains to the period when I was circuit clerk and what amount pertains to the period of time when Mrs(Phyllis) Bollinger was the acting clerk.

"This (check) is not an admission of liability on my part because I honestly don't know whether I owe this money."

Briggs said he was paying the amount to expedite the matter and save tax money that would be required to determine exactly what portion of the money he owed, if any.

Briggs is scheduled to hold his first session of court Tuesday morning in Sikeston.

Brigg's check was accepted by Les Landford, presiding judge of the county court.

Instruments for Cape Airport

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thirty - one airports including the one at Cape Girardeau - currently without the automatic instruments designed to keep pilots on the correct approach would be equipped with the devices under a bill coming before the House this week.

The Federal Aviation Administration will install the Instrument Landing Systems at a total cost of $6,490,000 if the bill becomes law.

The ILS is a radio- beam device that transmits a continuous signal from the ground to the approaching aircraft.

454 Die In Holiday Traffic

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic accidents killed 454 persons during the three-day New Year's holiday weekend during which heavy snow made roads hazardous over much of the nation.

The National Safety Council had estimated that between 400 and 500 motorists would die during the period from 6 p.m. local time Thursday to midnight Sunday.

The number was far below the record high of 564 in 1965 for the three-day celebration which brings in the new year. The record low since World War II for the period is 269, set in 1949.

The New Year's holiday is normally freer from accidents than other holidays. In the past year 612 persons died during the Labor Day weekend, 540 during July 4th and 509 during Christmas. All were three-day celebrations.

Blizzards Strand Thousands, Cause More Than 20 Deaths

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A raging winter storm that spread a foot-deep topping of snow from the Rockies to the Great Lakes, stranding thousands of homewardbound holiday travelers, dumped more snow today on the nation's midsection.

More than a score of deaths were blamed on the storm. Most of the victims were persons who overexerted themselves while shoveling snow. Others died in traffic accidents or were found in cars stranded on snowclogged highways.

Thousands of motorists who expected to return home Sunday night from New Year's weekend trips gave up and sought whatever shelter was available.

Roads were closed in states from Montana and Utah to Missouri.

Long lines of cars were stalled in roads or stuck in drifts. Motels were jammed and makeshift shelters sprang up in diners and service stations.

The storm aimed its pinch at Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas which were hit by blizzard conditions.

Iowa authorities reported that 20 inches of snow blanketed Mason City, 16 inches covered Waterloo and 14 inches fell on Dubuque and Des Moines.

Winds up to 50 miles an hour continued in parts of the Great Plains states and Burlington Northern Railroad officials reported 25-foot snow drifts in sections of Nebraska.

The storm dumped heavy snow outside the blizzard belt. A record 16.4 inches fell in a 24hour period on Moline, Ill., and 16 inches blanketed Harmony, Minn. White Rock, N.M., near Santa Fe, reported 15 inches.

The National Weather Service saw little letup of the wintry fury and issued heavy snow warnings for at least four inches from northeastern Iowa across Wisconsin to Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

Police blamed fierce winds and low visibility caused by driving snow for the crash of a light plane near Eureka, Utah, that killed a Minnesota couple.

A New Mexico woman was killed when her car slid off snow-packed U.S. 64 and into the Rio Grande north of Santa Fe, and in Kansas the body of a motorist was found 100 yards from where his car had stalled in deep snow. He apparently was a heart attack victim, police said.

In Nebraska, a 47-year-old Omaha man died Sunday night after apparently suffering a heart attack while shoveling snow. A truck converted to a snow plow became stuck near Millard and one of two men inside died of carbon monoxide poisoning.

The blizzard described by veterans as perhaps the most severe in the Lincoln and Omaha area in a quarter of a century ground travel, business and industry to a halt. The homecoming welcome for the University of Nebraska's Orange Bowl champions, stranded in Miami, was postponed for at least a day.

Lincoln got 13 inches of snow and Omaha 10. State police reported that more than 1,000 motorists were stranded by the storm in a 25 to 30 mile stretch of Interstate 80 near Omaha.

Most of the travelers found refuge in truck stops and state police asked farmers to keep their lights burning through the night so their homes would be visible to stalled motorists.

Southeastern Nebraska and western Iowa were paralyzed as blowing snow reduced visibility to zero. Airports were shut down in Des Moines and Council Bluffs, Iowa, Omaha and Lincoln.

Midway Airport in Chicago closed, O'Hare International sent inbound flights elsewhere for a time and Mitchell Field in Milwaukee cut back on operations, stranding 45 members of the road cast of the show "1776" who were headed for Des Moines.

Schools throughout the Midwest, set to reopen after Christmas vacation, called delays as snow snarled transportation systems.

Travel warnings were posted from Texas to Michigan, where flurries froze to highways coating them with a treacherous glaze.

Seven to eight inches of snow accumulated in the Oklahoma Pahnandle. Rain fell from the southern edge of the blizzard belt to the Gulf of Mexico.

At the edge of the snowline, a windstorm overturned three trailer homes and a tornado damaged houses in Arkadelphia. High winds and large hail walloped other areas of Arkansas.

Snow stranded in Concordia, Kan., a high school band en route home from the Orange Bowl.

The band left Miami in shirtsleeves after marching in the Orange Bowl Parade. After their chartered plane was diverted from Kansas City Airport to St. Louis they tried to make it home to Phillipsburg, Kan. in three buses.

But the vehicles became snowbound and the musicians had to ride out the storm in Concordia.

Snow was so deep in Wisconsin it forced authorities to call off a snowmobile race, although 5,000 fans made the trip to the Milwaukee suburb of Menomonee to watch the contest.

Kansas, Northwest Missouri Snowed In

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Much of Kansas and the north-western corner of Missouri began digging out slowly today from a storm that dumped up to a foot of wind-whipped snow on the two states, closed highways and caused three deaths.

With the wind still kicking up in some areas and drifting the snow, the opening of highways was a slow process.

Schools were closed at many places. Many travelers were able to make it to cities and towns, where they spent Sunday night in private homes, motels and other temporary accommodations.

The three storm-related deaths:

Edgar R. Edds, 59, Whiting, Kan., a highway department employes, who was struck and killed Sunday by two cars while standing beside a salt truck on U.S. 73 north of Huron.

George Sherbert, 52, Nickerson, Kan., who was found dead about 100 yards from his car which had stalled in the snow. Sheriff's officers said the death apparently was from a heart attack.

Jasper Shearhart, 52, Hays, Kan., who died Sunday in a Hutchinson hospital of an apparent heart attack. Hospital authorities said he had been shoveling snow at a friend's house in Hutchinson.

Two high school bands en route home from the Orange Bowl parade in Miami, Fla., were stranded one in Kansas and the other in Missouri.

The 120-member Phillipsburg, Kan., High School band made it in three buses as far as Concordia, Kan., 90 miles from home, and spent the night there in private homes.

Ninety high school students and adults from Syracuse,Neb., were stranded with two buses at Maryville, Mo. They stayed Sunday night at Northwest Missouri State College and, with home only 100 miles to the north west, were anticipating another night as the school's guests.

More than 200 motorists were stranded in Hays because of snow-blocked Interstate 70.

The National Guard in Hays opened its facilities to house and feed some of the travelers. Motorists also spent the night in private homes and in a dormitory at Fort Hays State College. A motel set up temporary bedding in its dining room and took care of about 100 people.

At Great Bend, Kan., many streets were blocked and highways in the area were closed. One street was closed by a drift 30 feet wide and 6 feet high. The snow in the Great Bend area drifted badly by strong winds.

Dodge City streets also were jammed with snow, and many people had to walk to work. Most schools in southwest Kansas were closed. Schools at Greensburg and Garden City were reported open, but no buses were being sent out into the country in those areas.

The snow at Dodge City was described as a "10-inch fall that blew all over the place."

Hutchinson reported most highways in that area closed or partly blocked. Schools in Hutchinson were open but those in the county were closed.

Concordia received nine inches of snow, which was whipped by winds of 20 to 35 miles an hour. All county roads were drifted shut. County crews hoped to have the roads open Tuesday if the wind subsides. Concordia streets, except for major thoroughfares, were blocked in places.

Atchison, in northeast Kansas, received about 7 inches of snow. Except for some county roads, highways were open. Atchison schools were open but county schools held no classes.

About 100 motorists were stranded in McPherson overnight. The disaster unit of the Red Cross, aided by McPherson Jaycees and a radio club,served sandwiches and coffee, and, with motels and hotels filled, found rooms for many in private homes.

Highway K61 from McPherson to Hutchinson, was limited to one-way travel in many places but was expected to be open fully by evening. U.S. 56 east and west of McPherson also was restricted to one-way traffic in spots.

New County Court Holds First Meeting

BENTON -- Members of the new Scott County court met officially for the first time this morning.

The court is comprised of L. D. Lankford, Chaffee, presiding judge; Eldon Ziegenhorn, Sikeston, judge of district one, and Louie Hirschowitz, Oran, judge of district two.

The judges agreed to continue meeting each Monday and Friday, the practice of the previous county court.

Judge Lankford said the court will spend one day each week in driving around the county to assure maintenance of county roads and ditches.

Judge Lankford said county officials are preparing budgets for 1971. The county court will determine the overall county budget from this. Judge Lankford predicted the budget will be about the same as last year.

The court voted to continue to employ Clarence Cannon as county highway supervisor and Evin Burke as county ditch commissioner. The appointments are for two years.

Marijuana In Truck, Two Arrests

NEW MADRID--Steve Haggett, 22, of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Byron Cummins, 19, a student at Arkansas State in Jonesboro, were arraigned in magistrate court this morning on charges of possession of marijuana.

They requested and received a preliminary hearing set for 1 p.m. Monday.

Haggett and Cummins were stopped last night by Officer Billy Carter for running a stop sign.

Carter said he noticed that the paneled truck in which they were riding was filled with smoke and noticed one of the men was acting strangely.

Carter took them to the city jail.

A small bag thought to contain marijuana was found in the vehicle and county officials were called. A check proved the substance to be marijuana and the two men were charged with possession.

They were released this morning on $1,000 bond.

Killed was a passenger, Herbert Franklin Coran, 41, Malden. The body was taken to Boyd Funeral Home, Malden, where services were today at 2 p.m. with the Rev. Dick Brown officiating.

Burial was in Portageville cemetery.

The driver of the car suffered head cuts and bruises.

Orchestra Concert Scheduled Friday

The high school orchestra, directed by Richard Powell, will present its annual winter concert Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafetorium.

The program will be a varied one featuring two violin soloists as well as the 43 member orchestra. From the opera, "The Red Poppy" by Rheinhold Gliere, comes one of the orchestra's favorite selections, "The Russian Sailors' Dance". The music, as the name implies, depicts the rough and clumsy dancy of rugged Russian seamen - first slowly, then faster and faster to a frenzied climax.

Music from Spain, quite and serene at times and then fiery and spirited, will be present in the selection "Andalucia Suite" by Ernest to Lecuona.

Traditional music from English folklore, will involve violin soloists Elizabeth Dupont and Terry Teachout as they play Alec Rowley's "Miniature Concerto" accompanied by the orchestra.

Classical music is a part of any orchestra program and the orchestra will perform Corelli's "Sarabande and Allegro" and "Prelude and Fugue" by Handel. Today's American music will be played.

The program will open with an American composer's selection, "Midnight Beguine" by Clare Grundman, and close with one of Bert Bacharach's top hits, "Raindrops Keep Falling On My Head".

No admission will be charged and there will be no reserved seats.

Bank Lowers Prime Rate

PHILADELPHIA (AP)–First Pennsylvania Banking & Trust Co., biggest in Philadelphia, today cut the prime interest rate from 6 3/4 per cent to 6 1/2 per cent –the sixth reduction in nine months–and explained "we've got money and we're looking for loans."

It was the first major bank in the nation to take this action.

The prime is the interest charged to the bank's best customers. It has skidded steadily from a high of 8 1/2 per cent last March.

James Bodine, First Pennsylvania's executive vice president, said "this should be a fine New Year's present for business."

The prime rate had been reduced to 6 3/4 per cent about three weeks ago, a move that started first in New York City and was joined by other financial institutions.

"We decided to cut the rate again," Bodine said, "Because the loan demand continues to be soft. The prime at its previous level was a bit out of step with the money market in general, and that needs a little prodding."

Nixon West Coast Bound

WASHINGTON (AP) – President Nixon is flying to California Tuesday to spend eight or ten days at the Western White House at San Clemente.

Aides said he will be working on business left over by Congress and on messages and programs for the year ahead.

The big items are completion of the new budget for the 1972 fiscal year, and the drafting of the annual message on the State of the Union that encompasses administration legislative plans and programs for the year ahead.

The annual economic message is the third major item that will be getting a going over from Nixon and top aides.

Mrs. Nixon will be making the trip but other members of the family have no plans to do so.

Nixon Agreeable to Followup Of Tonight's TV Interview

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, who will hold an hour-long TV-radio conversation with four broadcast journalists tonight, says he would be willing to have a similar session with representatives of the writing press.

Chatting informally with four reporters on New Year's Eve, Nixon said the television networks already have indicated they would provide broadcast time for such a presidential question-and-answer meeting.

Nixon, however, said difficulty in agreeing on which four writers would represent news agencies, newspapers and news magazines might prove to be an insurmountable obstacle.

Tonight's broadcast will originate live from the basement-floor library of the White House at 8 p.m.

The idea for the program originated with the White House, reportedly with the aim of showing Nixon in a warm and intimate setting. A White House aide was quoted as saying:

"So many people say they want to know what the President is really like, we thought this was a good way to show them."

Another aide indicated the White House is hoping the broadcaste will ask generalized questions instead of making inquiries keyed closely to current news developments.

But press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said no restrictions have been placed on types of questions that may be asked or on subjects to be explored.

He said the program would be "a general conversation in depth and perspective on major issues before the country and the presidency."

The four broadcasters who will question Nixon are Howard K. Smith of the American Broadcasting Co., Eric Sevareid of the Columbia Broadcasting System, John Chancellor of the National Broadcasting Co. and Nancy Dickerson, a former NBC correspondent representing the Public Broadcasting Service.

Ziegler acknowledged he had suggested the networks be represented by anchormen of the popular early evening news programs. However, he said the networks selected the participants.

When Nixon held a similar TV-radio conversation with Smith, Sevareid and Chancellor in Los Angeles last July 1, questioning was limited to foreign policy subjects.

The President spent the holiday weekend at Camp David, Md., watched televised football games and worked on his State of the Union Message to be delivered to Congress Jan. 22.

The White House announced he had vetoed a bill to revise the system under which federal blue-collar workers are paid. The bill would have provided a 4 per cent pay hike to 800,000 workers by providing an extra pay grade in each job classification.

Nixon, in his veto message, said the bill would have fed inflation with "costly and unwarranted pay features." He said the only way to pay costs of the raise would have been to cut jobs, especially in the Defense Department.

He signed a $3.55-billion three-year crime-fighting bill under which payments will be made to state and local government through the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

The new law provides added protection for the president and makes it a federal crime to kill, kidnap or assault a member of Congress or a congressmanelect while he is performing official duties.

Nixon also signed a bill authorizing $300 million in a three-year program to fight problems of alcoholism. Most of the money, $180 million will go to the states while the remainder will be granted various organizations fighting alcoholism.

Two Escape, Recaptured

POPLAR BLUFF--Two men temporarily escaped from the Butler county jail in Poplar Bluff early today but were quickly apprehended in the city, the highway patrol said.

"A boy made a phone call in the jail at 7 a.m. and when the jailor returned him to his cell, John Mobley, 20, and Terry Huff, 22, rushed the jailer, struck him on the head with a handle from a mop bucket knocking him out," Lt. George Montgomery said.

Montgomery said he picked up the two men 15 minutes later in the city.

He said the two were in jail on a breaking and entering charge and that he assumed the two would be prosecuted on felonious assault and jail break charges.

Two Men Attack Officer

Police man Paul Hall is recovering from shock, in Missouri Delta Community hospital after being struck in the stomach and back by two men while patrolling an alley behind the Woolworth Company store at 8:30 p.m. last night.

Hall stopped when he saw two men in the alley while investigating a broken barred window and a padlocked door during a rain. The two men jumped him, according to Chief Arthur Bruce who said that "Hall was trying to make contact for help from the police station when he was struck".

The men jumped a fence and ran down Front street near the Catholic church, where they escaped in a 1962 or 63 white Chevrolet.

Bruce said Hall was not able to get a good look at the men. One struck him from behind and the other hit him from the front knocking him to the ground.

Officers took Hall to the hospital. This morning he was still dazed and unable to describe what had happened. He will remain in the hospital for observation and will be X-rayed for a possible fracture.

Third Fatality Marine Sergeant

STEELE--The highway patrol has identified Sgt. Joseph Edward Smith, 23, stationed at the Eltoro California marine air base, as the third fatality in the two-car accident two miles north of Steele Saturday morning.

The patrol said the vehicle involved was a 1970 Dodge traveling south, driven by Smith's wife, Barbara Louise, 23, Garden Grove, Calif.

The Dodge was passing a long line of vehicles and struck a 1970 Ford going north, driven by Willie M. Beard, 42, Kokomo, Ind., the patrol said.

Smith was a passenger in the Dodge. He was dead on arrival at Pemiscot Memorial hospital in Hayti.

Injured in the Dodge were the driver with face cuts; Kathey Smith, one, body injuries; and Stanley Smith, three, body injuries.

Killed in the Ford were Herman T. Beard Jr., 50, and his wife, Lillie Beard, approximately 56, both of Chicago.

The bodies were taken to the Dean Funeral Home in Caruthersville.

THREAT TO SURVIVAL

Charles B. Shuman who is retiring from the presidency of the gigantic American Farm Bureau Federation told the convention of members in Houston recently that inflation is the biggest threat to survival of the American system.

"It is eating us up," he said, "and if allowed to continue, can destroy this nation ... There is no mystery about the cause of inflation – excessive government spending and easy money ... Inflation rewards the speculators, the indolent and the reckless, and penalizes the poor, the aged and the thrifty."

In short, inflation is immoral.

HOW IMPORTANT ARE THE RAILROADS?

When the railroads shut down all over the country recently, some people couldn't get to work, others were laid off, wheels of industry slowed down, and power shortages were in the offing.

The 24 hours without trains jolted America and government officials including Congress.

According to the Department of Transportation, U.S. railroads move –

--41 per cent of the nation's intercity freight.

--70 per cent of the coal used by utilities and heavy industry.

--76 per cent of new autos and auto parts.

-78 per cent of the lumber and wood used in U.S.

--40 per cent of furniture shipments.

--63 per cent of chemicals, including most of those used to purify water supplies.

--68 per cent of iron, steel and other primary metals.

--46 per cent of meat and dairy products.

In addition, railroads each week carry an average of 4,041,000 commuter passengers and 1,494,000 other intercity passengers.

This union shutdown and the railroad crisis proved one thing that this cannot be allowed to repeat in the future.

Well, independent businessmen of the nation's 50th state, Hawaii, have come up with a new idea for cutting or eliminating losses from bad checks. They are supporting a proposal that the legislature pass a resolution encouraging all banks in the state to refuse checking accounts for any persons with a history of writing bad checks.

National Federation of Independent business surveys show that the problem of bad checks is quite a national problem, causing business substantial losses even when elaborate protection measures are taken. Banks, of course, "bounce back" bad checks deposited by business and usually make a service charge.

It is apparently the viewpoint of these independent businessmen that the banks should assume some responsibility in curbing the flow of worthless checks.

Of course, we must add that any businessman knows he must set up his own safeguards -- one of which is to call the bank that a check is issued on to verify whether it is good or not, if there is any question in the merchant's mind at the time he takes it. If the customer won't stand hitched for this, that's all the warning needed.

BET ON THE PROBLEM SOLVERS

A number of social and economic philosophers foresee a grim race between the Earth's resources and an exploding population. As a solution, some of them suggest producing fewer goods and services including electric power. Altogether, their outlook can only be described as stagnant, depressing and -- most assuredly -- self-defeating.

Fortunately, the philosophers of despair are in the minority. Other people of a more positive turn of mind see new vistas of a better civilization for the future. Among these are representatives of the U.S. investor-owned electric light and power industry who attended the annual convention of the Edison Electric Institute. Mr. A. H. Aymond, speaking as retiring president of the Institute, said emphatically, "We disagree with those who believe that environmental solutions should include the concepts of power rationing ..." As Mr. Aymonds points out, abundant energy is elemental to survival, and every resource of technology must be bent to the task of more efficient energy production. For example, he notes that, "When controlled fusion is achieved, hydrogen atoms in the oceans of the world will form almost limitless reservioir of energy for mankind. The fusion process for creating electricity will make possible the recovery from wastes of basic raw materials for recycling into new products ... science and technology, well-directed and properly applied, can be a savior of our physical world -- indeed, of our species."

This year, as never before, the Annual Meeting of the U.S. electric industry reflected the widening gulf between the school of thought which would have the nation retreat into oblivion and the kind of leadership that is able to turn today's problems into a better tomorrow.

AMERICA'S FIRST 20 YEARS

The United States of America grew to greatness in the early years of its existence. Some of the reasons for this meteoric rise in our country's success were our geographical location, our natural resources, and our western European cultural heritage.

After giving due credit to these factors, however, we must acknowledge the greatness of our early leaders as the single most important asset which our new republic possessed. Time after time outstanding leaders came to the fore. From the Declaration of Independence to the Louisiana Purchase, there was always someone to step forward and stand out.

The first great leader of our country was George Washington of Virginia, who gained fame long before there was a United States of America.

After beginning his career as a surveyor at the age of 16, Washington became a military man in 1753 at the age of 21, on the eve of the French and Indian War. Washington performed heroically during this war, being made commander of all Virginia troops with the rank of colonel. After this war Washington was alternately a farmer, a member of the House of Burgesses, and a justice of the peace.

In the House of Burgesses, Washington strongly opposed such British measures as the Stamp Tax and the Boston Port Act. In 1775, Washington was named commander in chief of the Continental Army.

Most people know of Valley Forge and of Washington's gallant leadership throughout the Revolutionary War. Washington also was president of the Constitutional Convention of 1787, and he, of course, because the first President of the United States in 1789.

He served two terms as President and then stepped down, setting a precedent that has prevailed with one exception throughout the years. Washington's greatest contributions to American life were his devotion to the Constitutions to American life were his devotion to the Constitution and his policy of noninvolvement in the affairs of other countries.

George Washington was indeed the father of our country and was "first in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

John Adams, the second President of the United States, was born in Massachusetts in 1735, and his contributions toward freedom were several. In 1735, and his contributions toward freedom were several. In 1765, he fought publicly against the Stamp Act, and in 1766, he wrote newspaper essays for the Boston Gazette. He was a delegate to he firs and second Continental Congresses, and he was especially influential in securing the adoption of the Declaration of Independence. He was a minister to Holland and to Great Britain. He served two terms as Vice-President and one as President.

John Adams believed in and fought for independence and freedom at every opportunity.

Thomas Jefferson, America's great third President, was born in Virginia in 1743. Jefferson showed greatness throughout his life, from the campus to the Presidency.

He was educated at William and Mary College, and in 1767 he was admitted to the Virginia bar, subsequently becoming a successful lawyer. He was elected to the Virginia House of Burgesses in 1769 and for the next six years was a member of every assembly and convention of the colony.

Jefferson was elected to the Continental Congress in 1775 and again in 1776. During the Continental Congress 9f 1776, Jefferson drafted the Declaration of Independence which was adopted by the Congress.

After independence was declared, Jefferson served in the Virginia legislature and as the governor of Virginia. He then served as minister to France. He also used his influence in helping to bring about the Bill of Rights for the Consititution.

In 1789, Jefferson became the first secretary of state. During his tenure he founded a States' Rights Party In 1796, Jefferson was elected Vice-President of the United States. In 1800, he was elected President. His greatest achievement as President was the Louisiana Purchase. Othe;achievements were the Lewis and Clark Expedition and the naval expeditions against the pirates of Tripoli. In 1809, he retired to Monticello.

Thus the first twenty years passed. The Revolutionary War had been fought and won; the U.S. Constitution had been written, o which the Bill of Rights had been added; the new government had been established; the Louisiana Purchase had been settled; the western territory was being explored; and the new republic had steered clear of war.

The years of 1789 to 1809 were a great twenty years, and these were a great trio of Presidents – Washington, Adams, and Jefferson.

NEW YORK (AP) – Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Oddly enough, one of the best ways to gain weight is to go on a reducing diet. An expert, the late Dr. Norman G. Joliffe, said that "at least 90 per cent of all the people who lose weight on a diet gain more back than they have lost."

Education is spreading in the world—but so is illiteracy. The number of illiterates today is estimated at 800 million, or 100 million more than existed 20 years ago.

Ever wonder where the expression "to pull the wool over one's eyes" came from? According to the National Geographic Society, it is believed to have originated in the days when gentlemen wore long white wigs, made of wool usually. Highwaymen would pull a victim's wig down over his eyes before taking his belongings.

Among America's white population, one out of every 625 persons becomes a doctor. Among the nation's Negro population only one out of every 3,800 does.

Women are calmer than men. They lose their temper only three times a week on the average—men six times. Psychological studies also show that men usually are stirred to wrath by inanimate things such as dull razor blades, missed trains, or furniture they've tripped over. Women more commonly flare up at other people.

Quotable notables: "Longevity, barring hanging and accidents, is largely a matter of heredity."—Dr. Howard W. Haggard.

AN IMPORTANT STUDY

Electric power reliability is essentially an engineering, rather than a legislative, problem – not withstanding the ferment of legislative proposals on the subject that seem to get the headlines. Important news concerning the maintenance of current high standards of reliability in the electric power industry is found in a press release of the Edison Electric Institute. The Institute, according to the release, will undertake a two - year research study aimed at insuring continued reliability of electric power service in the U.S. The study will consist of a program to be pursued by 6 research organizations under the sponsorship of EEI -- trade association of U.S. investor - owned electric power companies.

In announcing the forthcoming study, a spokesman for the Institute notes that current methods of analyzing, operating and controlling growing complexes of power system networks will be " ... approaching their upper limits of effectiveness." He further noted that, " .... New communicating, computing and control systems, plus new methods in 'system analysis,' are becoming available at a rapid rate as a result of advancing technologies. These new tools, along with extensions and improvements of current methods of power system analysis and control, give promise of meeting the future needs of power system security if pursued through adequate research ...."

A half dozen fields in which this research is to be conducted involve the most sophisticated disciplines that can function best in an atmosphere of private initiative – an atmosphere whose merit is often overlooked in Washington's political ferment.

SOUND OFF LOUD AND CLEAR

The president of the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey, Inc., of New York made a statement before 750 farm organization officials that even a child can understand:

"Government officials invariably advance their spending increases and proposed new programs as being in response to 'demands of the people.' Since it is the people who pay the taxes to finance that spending, it is time for the taxpayers to sound off loud and clear with some demands of their own. Like most families, government is faced with more demands on its budget than that budget will support. While the family income imposes a clear limitation on the number of demands which can be met, the government has no such precise limit to keep its spending in line .... Certainly many things must be done now, but we are pushing the limits of taxation both in terms of its effect on individual taxpayers and the economy of the State ... Government officials have the responsibility to recognize the necessity of setting a limit. That is the only alternative to trying to do everything for everybody all at once."

And it should be added, the people must set a limit on the demands they make on government. They should be told in plain language, they and they alone will have to pay for every demand. The time to set a limit is before one goes broke.

Can the socks be coordinated with them?" No, sir, it's black socks for formal clothes, regardless of the colors of the ensemble.

CASHING IN ON THE FEM-LIBS

The ingenuity of the American businessman is apparently a match for any challenge. One manufacturer of appliances for housewives has even figured out a way to capitalize on the women's liberation movement.

Just introduced on the market is a new vacuum cleaner called the "Lifelong," whose claim to fame is seven easily replaceable parts.

Should any component in the cleaner, including even the motor, go on the blink, your average housewife can order a new one and simply snap it in place, No tools are needed, including that simple tool called a husband. The machine thus liberates a woman from that much dependence on the "man around the house."

It's rather doubtful if the fem - lib battalions will rush out to buy the vacuum cleaner, desirable as it sounds. They don't seem to be the types who go in much for housework of any kind.

Now if some manufacturer really wanted to strike a blow for liberation — for housewives and house husbands both — he'd come up with a car with replaceable snap - on fenders.

H.L. Hunt Says

DEATH PENALTY FOR ESCAPE PLANS

In communist Russia, simply planning to escape from the so-called "worker's paradise" is considered treason, punishable by the death penalty. Without getting near an airplane to carry out their excape plans, 11 citizens were arrested and hauled into court. Nine of the 11 were Jews and two of the Jews were sentenced to death while the nine remaining defendants were sentenced to labor camps.

Literally millions of political prisoners have died in Soviet labor camps for such crimes as planning to excape from Russia or even lesser offenses, so perhaps those being executed may have easier deaths than those facing the horror of the labor camps. If it is not too late, Jews around the world at last are being aroused to the dangers of communism.

Contrast the fast trials, and death penalties, in communist lands for simply planning to escape with the permissiveness in non-communist nations. In non-communist lands, actual hijacking of planes has become frequent but penalties and punishment have been weak, Also, revolutionaries are allowed to teach overthrow of the government by force and permitted to encourage students to murder their own parents.

Leftists, while urging a Marxist world, have virtually eliminated the death penalty in free nations such as the U.S., Canada and Britain, but these leftists seldom can bring themselves to criticize any communist regime for long, no matter how many bloody executions it perpetrates. In the U.S, when revolutionary criminals actually come to trial, on rare occasions, they are glamorized by national media and allowed to make a farce of judicial procedures. Trials drag on for months with the taxpayers footing the bill. Yet, the foolish attack the U.S. as being to repressive, while praising and "building bridges" to communism. HLH

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--Sam Houston Johnson has hinted that his famous brother, Lyndon, might try to return to the White House in 1972. Intimates agree that the former President doesn't like some of the leaders who are speaking for the Democratic party and manuevering for the presidential nomination.

He believed Ted Kennedy, George McGovern, William Fulbright, and the other Senate doves are repudiating the foreign policy and world leadership provided by Democratic Presidents since World War II. Even the more moderate Senator Ed Muskie, in his campaign for the nomination, is edging too far to the left to suit LBJ.

Johnson will be 64 in 1972, five years older than Richard Nixon but no older than Harry Truman was during the 1948 campaign. But LBJ, who has already suffered one heart attack, has expressed private apprehension over his longevity. In discussing his future with intimates, he has remarked that long life doesn't run in his family.

Those who know LBJ say he would rather be a kingmaker than attempt a comeback himself. They believe he would dearly like to install his close friend and political protege, John Connally, in the White House. For Connally is cast in the LBJ image, a carbon copy politically of the old master.

But even with Johnson's support, Connally has small chance of ever winning the Democratic presidential nomination. Intimates assert that LBJ has guided him instead into the Presidents Nixon's Cabinet. Connally accepted the appointment as Secretary of the Treasury, they say, with Johnson's quiet advice and consent.

This opens the door for Johnson himself to join the Nixon team. If an unacceptable liberal wins the 1972 Democratic nomination and if Nixon would accept Connally as his running mate, LBJ might come out for Nixon in 1972 and lead conservative Democrats into bolting the party.

$79,000 CAMERAS

The Defense Department has been cutting back expenditures so sharply that GIs are short of replacement parts for their jeeps and maintenance supplies for their barracks.

But Assistant Defense Secretary Roger Kelley is trying to squeeze $79,000 out of the budget for a brace of color TV cameras. He is eager to tape Pentagon propaganda in living color for the armed forces television network.

Given the new emphasis on economy, however, the budget shrinkers consider Kelley's cameras nonessential. They turned down his request, to quote a confidential memo, "in light of congressional criticism" of the number of communications devices already "controlled by the Secretary of Defense."

Undaunted, Kelley has now appealed over the heads of the budget boys His deputy, Vice Adm. W.P. Mack, contended in a return memo that "television cameras certainly do not fall in this category."

While Kelley is maneuvering to get new color TV cameras, incredibly, the Air Force is closing down its color studio at Andrews Air Force Base not far from the Pentagon. If the short ride to Andrews is too inconvenient for Kelley, there are other Air Force color facilities only a few steps away in the Pentagon itself.

In any case, most stations on the armed forces television network aren't equipped to show color tapes.

FIDGETY HOOVER

J.Edgar Hoover's rise from an obscure bureaucrat to an omnipotent crimebuster, whose name is familiar to every American, can be attributed partly to his bulldog look and his public relations genius.

There was the celebrated arrest, for example, of Alvin "Kreepy" Karpis back in 1933. Hoover was testifying before a Senate committee when he was alerted that his agents had Karkpis surrounded in a New Orleans apartment house.

Hoover barged out of the hearing and rushed to the airport for a plane to New Orleans. He was standing near Karpis's car when the desperado strolled out of the apartment building. As the racketeer settled behind the steering wheel, Hoover jabbed his pistol behind Karpis's ear.

"Well, I guess you've got me," said Kreepy.

"Put the cuffs on him, boys," snapped Hoover.

There was an embarrasssing search for handcuffs; no one had any. Kreepis Karpy, Public Enemy No. 1, was finally led to justice with his hands bound by a necktie. That tie, along with other mementoes of the war against crime, occupies a position of honor in the FBI's musuem.

Our FBI-Style investigation of Hoover indicates, however, he is no longer the gun-toting, staccato-talking, fearless foe of crime and communism that his press notices would have the public believe.

He is the only government official, except for the President himself, to rate a bulletproof limousine. Maxine Cheshire, the Washington Post's society sleuth, declares that Hoover rides slouched down in one corner of the car while his hat is propped up in another corner as a decoy to draw possible hostile fire.

A youth with shoulder-length hair, who lives in Hoover's neighborhood said the FBI chief seems nervous about him. The youth told us that when he is around, Hoover won't leave his bulletproof Cadillac. The G—man and his chauffeur just sit in the car until the youth has moved up the street.

At times of civil disorders, plainsclothesmen park in unmarked cars in the neighborhood and read newspapers interminably. Indeed, neighbors say that two men park in front of Hoover's house almost every day after Hoover leaves and go inside the house. They appear to be security men.

Pants-Pressing Hoffa: Nixon and Teamsters' Chief Fitzsimmons Confer Confidentially in White House.

WASHINGTON: -- Two Teamsters leaders were under maximum security at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday, December 23. One was in the White House Oval Room chatting amiably with the President of the U.S. The other was in Lewisburg penitentiary cleaning and repairing mattresses for his fellow inmates and cleaning and pressing uniforms for guards of the U.S. Bureau of Prisons.

In the prison shop was No. 33298, Jimmy Hoffa, almost 58 years old and still in good shape, still working out, still planning to make good his pledge that snowy March 7, 1967, when he said, "I'll return to the union," stepped into the marshal's car, spat in the directionof a cluster of newsmen and was driven off to the maximum security block at Lewisburg.

And he is still General President of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters. But he'll never return to the union.

Meanwhile back at the White House, the portly 62-year-old Teamsters General Vice President Frank E. (Fitz) Fitzsimmons, now leader of the free world's largest union, had his finest moment. This former bus driver and trucker met on equal terms with Richard Nixon.

They talked of many things while Fitz's administrative aide nodded approvingly; Assistant Secretary of Labor Bill Usery praised the huge brotherhood for diligance in financial reporting; and special presidential adviser Charles "Chuck" Colson sat content with having brought together the heads of two empires.

Only once did Convict No. 33298 come up in the genial, almost fraternal, hour-long conversation. "Jimmy's" name was mentioned by the President -- not by Frank Fitzsimmons. The Teamsters' acting chief had dropped in seeking fraternity not clemency this time. It would have been gauche -- and everybody knows "Fitz" has grown with the office.

Prisoner Hoffa came into the dialogue after Mr. Fitzsimmons, more in sorrow than in anguish, told the President that the government bureaucrats give the teamsters a hard time. Every time an agency deals with the brotherhood, said he, it deals with suspicious and thrice the care and probing given any other union.

To this the President responded swiftly. The Teamsters will not be discriminated against. He knows what it means to be stigmatized. He did not want to get into the merits of the Hoffa matter, he asserted. He did not want to discuss the tactics or whether Hoffa had been justly or unjustly convicted. That is old history, right or wrong, added the President. He said in blunt, almost tough words, that his administration would not discriminate against the Teamsters nor would he permit them to be plagued by history. Three times he repeated that, three times is his fashion when he feels strongly and wants to make a point crystal-clear and hard-nosed.

He said that he knew what the Teamsters were up against and that his administration would judge the Teamsters on events today -- not those of history.

The Hoffa matter will not haunt you fellows, said he, and there will be no double standards in the Teamsters' relations with the government Fitz glowed amidst the holly, like just after a hole-in-one. Only this was better than golf.

There was in-talk: Fitz told of his dislike for Cesar Chavez and of his admiration for AFL-CIO chief George Meany. He spoke of the Teamsters' problems. And the President said the Teamsters were really hard hats at heart and he thanked them for their patriotic support.

All this now makes history. Fitz had sought the meeting. The President had finally invited him in for the signing of a new law affecting truckers.

But mark well this unreported gathering. Fitz now is a man among men of labor, a peer among a thousand union peers. He now could stand before the Teamsters' July 4 convention, declare his independence of Jimmy Hoffa and old history, run for office and be re-elected.

Then, as Lenin would say, the train of history will express it up the line.

There is no doubt that, once the Teamsters have a new president, the brotherhood will return to the "House of Labor" at the AFL-CIO's biennial national convention the following November in Bal Harbour, Fla. This will carry 1.1 million teamsters into the "Federation." Forgotten will be the wind-swept wintery day of 1957 in old Atlantic City when the Teamsters were ousted from the AFL-CIO.

Nor will the International Chemical Workers and the UnitedAuto Workers be far behind. And after the United Mine Workers (UMW) shakes free of federal litigation, it too will return and like Dorian Gray the photo of old John L. Lewis will ashen bit by bit on UMW walls.

And George Meany will stand as leader of the world's biggest, toughtest, organizing labor force, perhaps 20 million strong.

The express train could be derailed. It won't go easy for Fitz. Already secretly mailed letters, flowing from Puerto Rico, Chicago and Detroit, assail him.

Jimmy Hoffa in that old block has more pressing thoughts than pants. And friends, too. He could run in absentia and win if he "busts" Fitz, the man he made caretaker. It could happen. But it won't. History's train has passed James Riddle Hoffa by -- the stop at Elba has been discontinued.

Fitz made the Oval Room. He'll make the Teamsters presidency.

On Hoffa's old desk in the Teamsters marble palace here there still is his wooden plaque reading, "Illegitemi Non Carborundum" -- Hoffa's words for: "Don't let the bastards wear you down."

It should be replaced with a shingle reading "Sic Transit Gloria Mundi" -- thus passes away the glory of (t) his world.

Medical Miracle

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) – Katy is home now, five pounds of medical improbability, and thriving. But she really wasn't due until late this month.

Katy was born Oct. 19, more than three months premature, at Charlotte's Presbyterian Hospital. She weighed one pound, seven ounces. Then she lost two ounces and took two weeks gaining them back.

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. David Gilland of Charlotte, both in their late 20s.

"I was the most astounded human being in the world when she was born," said her father. "And I was more astounded when she was still alive 24 hours later."

Recalling the night of the birth, Mrs. Gilland said, "The doctor told me Katy was living, but he didn't know how."

Still, Betty Lord, Katy's nurse at Presbyterian, said, "This baby never had any troubles.

"We fed her every hour, for ages, through a tube, and then every two hours. A couple of weeks ago we started her on the bottle and then she started gaining two and three ounces a day.

"Thursday, she weighed five pounds and her parents were able to take her home.

The father, a strapping 194pounder, recalled that he, too, was on the wee side—2 1/2 pounds —when he was born at West Jefferson in the North Carolina mountains.

Ann Landers

Mother of 11 Calls Children by Dates

Dear Ann Landers: That was a terrible letter from the woman who called her mother senile just because she couldn't remember the names of her children.

Our own dear mother lived to be 88. There were 11 children in our family. We were all born before Mother was 32. She could never remember any of our names so she used to call us by our birthdays. I was "January 3". Everyone called me "Jan" for short. (They still do). The two youngest in our family were twins. Mom called Harold, "Boy, February 9" and Burdette, "Girl February 9." My oldest brother is called "Ape " by everyone. (His birthday was April 8th.) The only confusions was with my sisters June and Marie. When Mom would holler "June !" she was calling Marie, but sometimes June (whose birthday was in December) would answer. Outside of that mixup there was no trouble.

Some people thought this was very strange. We never did. It seemed perfectly natural to us. So please print my letter and remind your readers that every mother has her own little oddities and this doesn't mean she is nuts — January 3.

Dear Jan: Thanks for letting us know how it was in your family My mother called us by our names. Sometimes she'd call three names before she hit the right one – but she always made it eventually.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a freshman at a Midwestern University and I live in a dorm. I hope you'll answer in the paper because if a letter from Ann Landers showed up for me I'd die.

The problem is simple. I can't get a girl. I've had a few blind dates but when I ask a chick on my own I strike out.

I'm not the ugliest guy in the world and I can't figure out why I'm poison ivy. I see real jerks scoring left and right. One kid in this dorm who is a case of arrested development actually gets phones calls from dames. I'm a fairly good conversationlalist and I really dig a bull rap session. Can you suggest something? I like chicks as well as the next guy but they don't like me . What's the word? —The Loner

Dear Loner: You say you like chicks as well as the next guy – but who is the next guy, and how well does he like girls? Does he like them well enough to try a second or third time after he's been turned down? And what kind of chicks do you chase? The campus beauty who has twelve other cats running after her? You might hit pay dirt by calling that quiet, not-so-gorgeous gal who doesn't seem to have much going for her. You could solve YOUR problem and hers, too.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter is 18. She is a high-minded moral girl, holds a good job and has never caused us any trouble.

Last night when her date was leaving (about midnight) he slammed the door and yelled, "Go to hell." My husband is a sound sleeper and this awakened him. He asked me if I had hear it – and I had.

At breakfast this morning our daughter said nothing. This evening at the dinner table my husband asked her what the argument was about. She replied, "Nothing important. Bill came to the office this afternoon and we straightened everything out."

Is this sufficient? My husband and I think it's not. If she were your daughter what would you do? —Concerned Parents

Dear Concerned: I'd mind my own business. The hassle was between them. Stay out of it.

Breakfast Makes Better Day

Let's start the year off right by starting the day off right--with breakfast! This is the time of year when everyone exchanges unfavorable habits for healthier, happier ones. Why not the "Breakfast Habit"!

Start your day by eating necessary foods that build a balanced diet. Studies show that better work and concentration are attained when you eat a well-balanced breakfast. Studies also show that malnutrition in a child's formative years may do permanent damage to his ability to perform as an adult. Breakfast is needed to "get you going," by providing at least 1/3 of your daily nutrient requirements. All it takes is planning ahead to spend a few minutes with your family while you enjoy favorite foods together.

For the past two years the Poultry and Egg National Board has designated January as "National Egg Month." We know of no better time of year to give emphasis to this nearly perfect food. As one of nature's masterpieces, the egg contains high quality and complete protein; also, iron and all known vitamins except Vitamin C.

Here's new for those who watch their cholesterol count. The latest twenty year long Framingham study has revealed that fat intake may have no relation to development of Coronary Heart Disease. Hard to believe? I'll keep myself informed on this subject and let you know the final decision of the American Heart Association.

Of course, a breakfast "must" is that of including America's popular breakfast meat--pork. It's easy to include this meat at every breakfast, as well as at any meal, because of its versatility and its taste compatability. We should dismiss all old fears about pork because the "new" pork is one of the most digestible of foods and, because of its concentration of key nutrients, it contributes very much to good health.

Pictured is one familiar suggestion for a happier day or, try it often, with its many variations, for a happier year.

When serving eggs, the styles to choose from are many: fried, poached, scrambled, or omelets with accents of grated cheddar cheese, mushrooms, bits of bacon, ham or chives. You may be delightfully surprised by adding a bit of grated parmesean cheese or garlic powder. In addition to the eggs, pork may also be served in many ways such as sausage, ham or bacon.

Of course, enjoy your breakfast with a cold glass of milk. Cheers! A Healthy New Year to you and yours from the Missouri Department of Agriculture.

Gourmet Corner:

"Plimoth Succotash" is a far cry from the mixture of corn and lima beans we eat today. Here is a recipe from the anniversary cook book.

* * *

PLIMOTH SUCCOTASH

1 quart pea beans
6 lbs corned beef
5 lbs fowl
5 quarts hulled corn
1 medium turnip
5 medium potatoes

Soak beans overnight, then cook and mash. This makes the thickening. Boil beef and fowl until tender and save liquor. Cut up turnip and potatoes and cook in the liquor. Cut the beef and fowl (after removing chicken meat from the bones) into 1 1/2 inch cubes.

Combine all ingredients and boil together for about one hour. Stir frequently. Serve in soup plates. It is better the second or third day. Serves 10 to 12 people.

Good for a supper party accompanied by a cold ale.

Pollution Solution Depends on You

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

'Tis the season to be pollution conscious. And the concern over the quality of the atmosphere poses problems for cities trying to dispose of thousands of Christmas trees after the holidays.

An Associated Press survey showed most cities have banned open-air burning and instead collect the trees and use them for landfill.

Conservation groups in some areas have other suggestions, however.

The Detroit Outdoorsmen, an affiliate of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, collects trees and hauls them to the northern part of the state for use as deer browse. The state group also suggest trees be distributed in wooded areas for use as cover for rabbits and other small wildlife.

The Babe Ruth Baseball Association in Salem, Ore., raises money through a tree-collection program. Members pick up trees at a cost of 50 cents each, inspect them for nails and wire and turns them over to the city which puts the trees through a chipper or shredding machine to get mulch for erosion control on the slopes in city parks.

The Missouri Department of Conservation suggests homeowners make bird-feeding stations out of the trees, anchoring them in the backyard and covering them with such things as suet and fruit. The department also says that when several trees are wired together, weighted and sunk to the bottom of a lake, they make good cover for fish.

In California, a spokesman for the Sierra Club said his group had been trying to get people "to buy living trees and give them to the U.S. Forest Service after Christmas" for replanting. He acknowledged, however, that "live pine trees have been in short supply in the nurseries and pretty expensive too. You can't ask people to buy trees that don't exist."

Cincinnati's Environmental Coordinating Organization ran a similar drive and will collect the live trees and plant them in nearby open areas.

Typical of many cities is New York where the sanitation department has special postChristmas truck runs to pick up the trees which are put through a chipper, then buried at landfill sites. A department spokesman says the collection procedure takes about 10 days.

Artificial trees are one solution. Ralph Hulsey, superintendent of sanitation in Atlanta, estimated more than 20,000 trees would have to be disposed of in the area, then added: "I use an artificial tree. I really think this is the solution. Not only do you solve the problem of disposal, you lessen the fire hazard."

There are exceptions to the antiburning rules—namely in areas where Epiphany bonfires 12th nights after Christmas are traditional.

In Denver, a spokesman for the pollution board said the 12th night bonfires were considered "recreational burns" and exempt from pollution laws.

Massachusetts officials told residents of Marblehead their plan to burn trees on a beach causeway in a traditional celebration was illegal. But the city Board of Health decided not to oppose the plan and a spokesman said, "If the sponsors of a 12th night program want to burn Christmas trees and greens at River Head Beach as they have for so many years, the Board of Health will let them do it."

Not so in Kansas City. The director of air pollution control refused to issue a special permit for the Epiphany burning traditionally held in a city park and the Recreation Department canceled the program.

Big Money Games

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Colts, doubted by their followers and outcasts in the American Football Conference, are on their way to the Super Bowl.

Forcing the breaks which Coach Don McCafferty said would make the difference, the Colts polished off the Oakland Raiders 27-17 to win the AFC title Sunday and debunk charges they had yet to prove themselves.

Now it's on to Miami for a Jan. 17 Super Bowl date against the Dallas Cowboys, who defeated the San Francisco 49ers 17-10 for the National Conference championship, and a shot at another $15,000 prize.

The Colts will collect a minimum $8,500 for whipping the favored Raiders, but there was more money at stake.

"Maybe this will wipe out our game against Kansas City which millions of people saw on television," said Dick Bielski, coach of Baltimore's receivers.

Even Baltimore fans were willing to write off the Colts after they were manhandled 44-24 by the Chiefs in the second game of the season.

Nothing the Colts did later changed the early season opinions. Even when they won the Eastern Division with an 11-2-1 record, the Colts were accused of having faced patsy opposition.

In addition, as one of three former National Football League teams switched to the AFC with 10 onetime American League teams, the Colts were considered outsiders.

But the Raiders were the last of the old AFL teams left, and the Super Bowl will match two longtime NFL rivals.

A 68-yard touchdown pass from 37-year-old John Unitas to Ray Perkins, after Oakland had pulled to within 20-17 early in the fourth quarter, sent the Raiders down to defeat.

BALTIMORE—AFC Championship, take 2: defeat.

Perkins, bothered by a broken toe and suffering from a fever which limited his practice during the week to 20 minutes, broke free as the Colts used four wide receivers in a play pattern tried for the first time this year.

George Blanda, Oakland's 43year-old wonder whose last-minute heroics during the regular season brought the Raiders to the title game, rallied them again after starting quarterback Daryle Lamonica was hurt in the second period.

But the Colts moved ahead to stay on rookie Jim O'Brien's second field goal, and then made it 20-10 when rookie Norm Bulaich scored his second eight yards behind the line and wasn't intercepted.

Interceptions and rugged running by a rookie also played key roles in the Dallas victory at San Francisco.

Rookie Duane Thomas, who gained 143 yards on 27 carries, broke a 3-3 tie with a 13-yard TD run in the third period after linebacker Lee Roy Jordan intercepted a John Brodie pass.

On the next series, Brodie fired a long pass which Mel Renfro intercepted and set up a 62-yard Dallas drive culminated by a 5-yard TD pass from Craig Morton to Walter Garrison, which made it 17-3.

BALTIMORE—AFC championship, take 3: 17-3.

Brodie, the NFC's leading passer in 1970, later tossed a 26-yard scoring strike to Dick Witcher, but that was the last gasp for the 49ers who have yet to win a title in 25 years.

Dallas, meanwhile, reached the Super Bowl for the first time after making league playoffs for the fifth consecutive year.

The Colts, who lost to the New York Jets in their only previous Super Bowl appearance, sent the AFC's leading passer to the bench when end Bubba Smith smacked down Lamonica and injured his groin.

"This is as big if not bigger than playing in the Super Bowl," defensive tackle Billy Ray Smith said of Sunday's game. "No one thought we could do it."

"We didn't rush Blanda as hard as we should," Billy Ray said, "but we were set up more against the run."

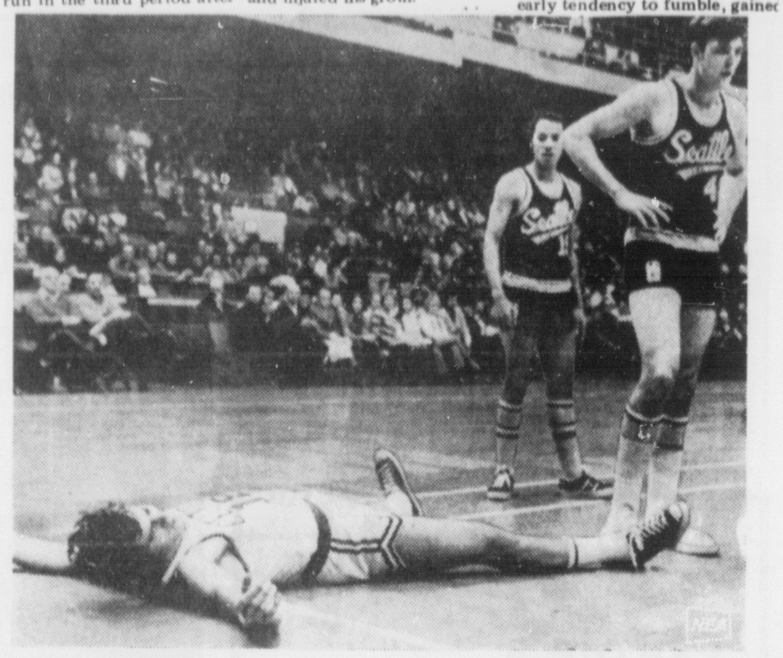

Blanda completed 17 of 32 passes for 271 yards, including a 38-yarder to Fred Biletnikoff in the third period which tied it 10-10 and a 15-yarder to Warren Wells to pull Oakland to within 20-17. Both scoring drives went 80 yards.

"This was our best performance of the year," McCafferty said. "But I don't think we've reached our peak since making adjustments after we suffered some injuries. Our best football is still ahead of us."

Bulaich, Baltimore's No. 1 draft pick who blossomed late after overcoming injuries and an early tendency to fumble, gained 71 yards on 22 carries. Unitas completed just 11 of 30 passes for 245 yards, but lost only touchdown.

Baltimore's rugged defense which blanked the Cincinnati Bengals 17-0 in the playoff opener, dumped Oakland quarterbacks five times for 48 yards in losses and picked off three interceptions.

In addition, Sam Havrilak of the Baltimore special teams recovered a fumbled punt by George Atkinson to set up a second period TD which put the Colts ahead 10-0.

FORSOOTH!—Dave Cowens appears more like an aspiring Shakespearean actor than a basketball player. But he just wanted to make certain that the referees didn't miss the fact that he had been fouled. Looking on are Pete Cross (right) and Len Wilkens of the Seattle Sonics.

MU's Gray Stars In East-West Game

OAKLAND (AP) — Don Pastornin and Leon Burns played their collegiate football in the so-called small college ranks, but both were big reasons the West beat the East in the 45th annual Shrine charity game.

Pastornin threw a touchdown pass to Missouri's Mel Gray on a play covering 45 yards and also contributed a 42-yard field goal, longest by placement in the history of the East-West competition, as the West won 17-13 Saturday.

The 6-foot-3 quarterback from Santa Clara won honors as the game's outstanding offensive player.

Burns, a 225-pounder and twice a Little All-American from Long Beach State, was a late addition to the squad. He came on to rush for 88 yards on 22 carries and also caught a pass for another 22.

Of the Santa Clara product, Coach Eddie Crowder of Colorado, who headed the West staff, declared, "He's a remarkable football player, excellent now and he'll get better."

It was Crowder who put in the play which electrified the Oakland Coliseum crowd of 54,000 as the West scored on a 99-yard return of the opening kickoff.

Norm Thompson of Utah took the kick at the one and reversed to Gray, who scampered the remaining 87.

"We scored twice with the play at Colorado in 1969 and a player with Gray's speed 9.2 for the 100 can go all the way if we get him some running room."

Despite Gray's relatively small stature, Crowder thinks he also will be one of the 1970 collegiate crop with a good chance of making it in professional football.

"Anyone with that sort of speed could be successful," the Colorado coach declared.

Devaney Wants No. 1

MIAMI (AP) — The Nebraska Cornhuskers wanted to play Notre-Dame — then ranked No. 1— in the Orange Bowl. But, says Husker Coach Bob Devaney, the Fighting Irish lost their crown and they simply don't deserve it back now.

"I can't see how the Associated Press could vote for anyone but Nebraksa. We were No. 3 when we went in, but we won the bowl game," said Devaney whose team defeated Orange Bowl opponent Louisiana State 17-12.

"Notre Dame is a fine team," he added in a telephone interview early this morning. "I think they should be among the top two or three maybe, but I don't see how they could be first."

Devaney's remarks followed a statement made Sunday by Notre Dame Coach Ara Parseghian who said his team "accepted a greater challenge by playing No. 1-ranked Texas the Cotton Bowl than Nebraska did in going to the Orange Bowl."

"He's full of B. S. to make statements like that," said Devaney. "Notre Dame was only able to score a field goal against LSU on their own field. And I don't think Notre Dame would like to have another go round with LSU."

Parseghian feels his team should be strongly considered in the final Associated Press polls this week which will determine thee nations national collegiate football champion. Including thier 24-11 Cotton Bowl victory over Texas, Notre Dame's record is 10-1. But Nebraska is the only major undefeated team with a 11-0-1 showing.

Of the prehistoric men, the Cro-Magnon was the first physical type of modern man.

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — In a lastminute maneuver for the national championship title, Notre Dame Coach Ara Parseghian said Sunday his Fighting Irish "accepted a greater challenge" in playing Texas in the Cotton Bowl than did Nebraska in the Orange Bowl.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the Cotton Bowl said the selection committee had asked Nebraska not to be too hasty in accepting the Orange Bowl bid. The committee had asked Nebraska to forestall its decision for a week.

The Associated Press' final poll this week will name the national champion.

Parseghian admits the Irish have a slim chance at the title since Notre Dame ended the season with a 10-1 record while Nebraska finished with 10-0-1.

But, Parseghian said, "The automatic assumption that they should be No. 1 disturbs me. Our team should get a great deal of credit for accepting the challenge of playing the topranked team."

Texas was No. 1 in the last regular season poll but Notre Dame shot them out of the saddle New Year's Day with a 24-11 victory. Friday's victory also ended the Longhorns' 30-game winning streak.

"Nebraska was definitely considered strongly," the Cotton Bowl spokesman said. "We didn't issue them an invitation, but we definitely let them know we were interested. We told them we probably wouldn't be able to make a decision for another week or so but apparently they weren't interested enough to wait."

However, contacted at his Miami Beach hotel this morning, Nebraska Coach Bob Devaney said: "I'd like to know who that spokesman was. No one wasked us to wait a week.

"I called Parseghian to try to find out where they were going to play, but he couldn't tell me. He just didn't know at the time. The bowl people didn't give us the time," he added.

"We couldn't monkey around for a week having the kids thinking about bowl games, so we decided on the Orange Bowl the following day," he said.

Under NCAA rules, Nebraska was able to accept a bowl bid a week earlier than Notre Dame because Nebraska's season ended Nov. 21 while the Irish didn't finish the season until Nov. 28. Rules permit a team to be offered a bid a week before the end of its regular season.

The Cornhuskers were commited to the Orange Bowl Nov. 14. The next week the Irish beat Louisiana State 3-0 and, one day later, they voted to go to the Cotton Bowl for a shot at higher-ranked Texas.

"I think Notre Dame may have lost a little glamor by that 3-0 win," the Cotton Bowl spokesman said. "I've got to say that hurt their appeal somewhat. They were supposed to be the No. 2 or No. 3 best scoring team in the country and Joe Theismann was throwing the ball all over the place. We just might have invited Nebraska."

Devaney said, "It's pretty plain to me that we're the nation's beat team. Even the Pope couldn't vote Notre Dame No. 1!"

But Devaney was just pouring fuel on Parseghian's fire.

"We accepted the greater challenge," said the Notre Dame coach. "They accepted the Orange Bowl without knowing who their opponent would be and they knew it couldn't be an unbeaten tem. We knew we'd play the Southwest Conference champion, with the strong possibility of an unbeaten winner in Texas."

"We also had an invitation from the Orange Bowl. But we knew we couldn't be No. 1 by going to the Orange Bowl. Someone else then would have had to beat Texas," Parseghian said.

When the smoke cleared, Notre Dame had lost to Southern California 38-28 on Nov. 28 and Nebraska, who had earlier tied Southern Cal 21-21, beat LSU 17-12 in the Orange Bowl.

Parseghian said the voters should give a detailed look at the statistical accomplishments of each team.

Big 8 Race

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Big Eight Conference basketball teams, except for favored Kansas and Colorado, start playing for keeps Saturday when the chase for the league title gets under way.

Oklahoma State and Iowa State will raise the curtain on the conference campaign in an afternoon contest at Ames, Iowa. The game will be televised. In the other openers, Nebraska is at Kansas State and Oklahoma at Missouri Saturday night.

Kansas, ranked No. 12 in the nation, sees its first conference action Jan. 18 against Iowa State at Lawrence, Kan., and Colorado makes its debut Jan. 16 at Oklahoma.

As the conference season approaches, Coach Ted Owens of Kansas still isn't satisfied with his team even though the Jayhawks have a 9-1 record and have won both the Jayhawk Classic and the Big Eight Conference pre-season tournament in which they knocked off Nebraska 72-52 in the finals.

"We have a long way to go to be an outstanding basketball team," Owens says. "No doubt we've been inconsistent. A lot of this can be ironed out by Jan. 18.

"I think the team which wins the Big Eight championship is the team which improves the most in the weeks ahead."

Nebraska, 10-2, is expected to give Kansas the most trouble in the race for the conference crown. Coach Joe Cipriano admits the Cornhuskers "are the best shooting team since I've been at Nebraska."

Oklahoma, 8-2, won the tournament's consolation championship and looms as the darkhours in the conference race. The Sooners, although lacking a big star, have tremendous balance in scoring and Clifford Ray's brilliant rebounding.

Colorado, 6-4, has Cliff Meely, and he alone makes the Buffs a big threat although Coach Sox Walseth says Colorado is "not a real strong team."

After these four clubs — Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Colorado — there isn't too much difference in the teams. Defending champion Kansas State, 5-6, enters the race with guard problems and not much depth, and Coach Jack Hartman says the Wildcats "would like to be a little quicker."

Oklahoma State, 4-7, and Iowa State, 3-8, both have small teams. Oklahoma State didn't win a game in the Big Eight tourney but new Coach Sam Aubrey found out that the Cowboys have some excellent reserves in Steve Uthoff, Jerry Merida and Donnie Wheeler.

Iowa State proved a troublemaker in the tournament. The Cyclones, described by Coach Glen Anderson as "the youngest club I've ever had," upset Oklahoma and lost to Kansas in overtime.

Missouri, 8-4, may get better as John Brown rounds into form. Brown missed the team's first eight games because of an injury. Coach Norm Stewart says the Tigers haven't really "adjusted to having Brown in the line-up." Stewart adds the Tigers "know what they're faced with. It's an awfully strong league, awfully strong."

Two teams play tonight in non-conference tests. Iowa State goes to Northern Illinois, and Colorado continues its tour of the West Coast by stopping off at San Diego State.

Only Colorado has seen action since the tournament ended last Wednesday night. The Buffs lost at Long Beach State Saturday night 84-62. Meely scored 28 points but got little help from anyone else.

The standings:

	All Games W	L
Kansas	9	1
Nebraska	10	2
Oklahoma	8	2
Missouri	8	4
Colorado	6	4
Kansas State	5	6
Oklohoma State	4	7
Iowa State	3	8

Conference season begins Saturday.

David Crader Among Prep All-Americans

Four Southeast Missouri high school football athletes received honorable mention to Coach and Athlete Magazine and Sunkist 1970 high school All-American grid teams today.

Among the four was David Crader, a 5-foot-10 170-pound defensive end from Sikeston. David received honorable mention All-State and was listed first team All-District and all-conference.

Malden's Charlie Barber was honored also. The 5-foot-6 Southeast Missouri football conference scoring champion was a back for the Green Wave, who shared the Southern Division title with Dexter this past season.

All-Stater Carl Gross of Cape Girardeau Central was another of the 10 Missouri players singled out for the honor by Sportswriters and Sportscasters across the state. Gross was an all-state linebacker. He is 6-foot-4 and 220 pounds.

The District's leading scorer, with over 160 points, was the fourth SEMO gridder to receive the honor. He was Joe Abt of Ste. Genevieve, a 6-foot-1, 190 pound back.

Two Missouri athletes were selected for the top 100. Both from the Kansas City area. Named were Pete Simmons of Centralia and Michael fagan of Rockhurst. Simmons was a 5-foot-9, 274 pound guard while Fagan, a combination Fullback and linebacker, was 195 pounds and 6-foot-1,190 pound back.

Medical Center Rates Rise

COLUMBIA–The University of Missouri-Columbia Medical Center has been unable to escape the increasing costs involved in the provision of health care, Dr. William D. Mayer, dean and director, said in announcing today increases in its charge schedule, now in effect.

Nation-wide hospital costs increased 17 percent last year, Dr. Mayer said, "Costs have gone up primarily because of higher wage levels and higher prices charged for the supplies and equipment required in the provision of health care."

And, Dr. Mayer pointed out, care in large medical centers and teaching hospitals frequently includes specialized services and equipment not available in many smaller community hospitals.

In the past, the schedule of charges for services provided in University Hospital has been based on the estimated cost of the provision of those services, Dr. Mayer said. The same policy is being carried out in the current rate increases, he added.

Room rates will be increased by $9 per day and charges for many ancillary services will also go up. It is estimated that the average charge per patient per day will increase by $18.

A private room in University Hospital – including general nursing care, food service, housekeeping, linens, supplies, and some medications – will now cost $55 a day, as compared with a charge of $46 during the past year. A two-bed room will cost $52, up from $43; a four-bed ward $49 per bed, up from $40. Intensive care charges are generally increased by $10 per day.

Operating room charges, anesthesia, prosthetic and brace devices, casts, laboratory tests, and emergency room visits are also affected by the rate increases. Most lab tests increase 50 cents.

Whereas the emergency room fee has been $6 per visit, it will go to $7. Other examples of increased rates: a red blood count will cost $2.50 instead of $2; blood smear for malaria, $4.50 instead of $4; a long leg cast $10 instead of $9; and a laminated plastic neck brace $80 instead of $75.

Administrators of the Medical Center estimate that the increased charges will result in additional revenue of about $250,000 between January 1 and June 30.

"This revision of rates is only one measure instituted by the Medical Center to relieve severe financial strain caused by escalating operating costs during a year in which the State Legislature provided no increase in funds over those of the previous yes," Dr. Mayer said.

Cutbacks in salaries and wages are expected to effect a major savings in the second half of the fiscal year, Dr. Mayer said, "but contrary to rumors of many layoffs among employees I want to make it clear that much of the savings in wages is occurring because we are not replacing employees as they retire or resign."

There have been some layoffs, he said, but only a small number in relation to the total employment at the Medical Center. The hospital administrators' office is expected to make a statement next week on the current situation and what is anticipated in future employment at the Medical Center.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Bed Gnawer Is Foiled By Piece of Rubber Hose

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY and Mrs. O. S.—We found a good way to protect both the finish on the end of our grandson's crib and him at the same time. My husband took a piece of old rubber garden hose which I had washed and disinfected well, split it down one side with his pocket knife and slipped this over the end of the bed. It did not slip off and was easy to wash. We also put one of these over the old-fashioned sharp metal foot scraper in the back yard so the kiddies would not fall and get hurt on it. My husband has died but how happy he would be to know that someone had used his good idea.—LILA

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—We would like to give a Jack and Jill party for our soon-to-be-married daughter and her fiance. I would appreciate knowing how one goes about this. If any readers have ever given such a party I would appreciate hearing about it.—DORIS

DEAR POLLY—My Pointer is for those who wear different-colored headbands with wiglets or when the hair is fixed to look like a wiglet. I had only two scarves and could not afford more so had to find a substitute. Looking through my husband's old ties from years back I found lots and lots of beautiful ones to wear as headbands or also as belts with pants suits. If the ties are too long, cut out the narrow center and sew the ends back together again.—LILY

DEAR POLLY — My 21-month-old daughter has very long hair. It was always getting in her food when she was feeding herself until I started to snap her bib OVER her hair in the back and now it stays out of the way and in place. This would also work for older little girls who still wear bibs.—BARBARA

11th HOUR TAX PACKAGE APPROVED BY LEGISLATURE

JEFFERSON CITY, MO. — Nearly two years of frustration over revenue matters ended last week when the Missouri legislature approved a $97 million income and alcoholic tax increase.

The action came when the fourth special session of the 75th General Assembly was in its 48th day, less than 36 hours before the emergency tax measures were to become effective Jan. 1.

The House rejected two conference committee compromises before finally reaching a middle ground with the Senate.

It took a historic vote by the Senate to close off a filibuster by Sen. Earl R. Blackwell (D-Hillsboro) Dec. 20 to clear the way for that chamber to act on the income tax. The cloture vote was believed the first in the [illegible] legislators who denied a need for more state revenue.

Although they were sympathetic to the need for tax increases, many legislators balked at approving any income tax hike, since voters crushed this tax alternative in a statewide referendum April 7.

The original tax measure, submitted by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, had called for a 2 to 6 per cent sliding scale on individual rates, up from the 1 to 4 per cent rate. Hearnes also had asked for a corporate income tax increase to 5 per cent from its old 2 per cent level.

The Senate accepted this rate schedule, but demanded a Republican-sponsored one-year limit on the new tax. The House asked for a 1.5 to 6 per cent scale, giving a bigger break to lower income families, but opposed the one-year restriction because it would mean that lawmakers would have to face the same revenue problem in the regular session that begins Jan. 6.

There was no disagreement in either chamber on the corporate tax increase.

The compromise finally adopted the House's rates and the Senate's one-year limit.

The alcoholic beverage bill doubles the rate on beer and wine and hikes the liquor tax 66.3 per cent. Beer goes up to [illegible] per gallon. The liquor tax was [illegible] per gallon, an increase of 80 cents.

While finally reaching an agreement on the tax increases, the Legislature failed to agree on an emergency appropriation bill to provide the Welfare Department with the $3.9 million it needs to avoid a $157 million cutback in federal funds this year. The state is required by federal statute to fund welfare programs at the level of the previous year to qualify for federal assistance. A hearing on the matter is scheduled for later this month in Jefferson City with Health, Education nd Welfare officials.

Sen. T. D. McNeal (D-St. Louis) said he feared a $3 million portion of the bill rejected for Medicare would cause 200,000 Missourians to lose all of their assistance.

The Legislature will have to act quickly during the regular session to avoid such an evenuality.

The Legislature also did not act on the $250 million capital improvements bond requested by the governor. That measure will probably be considered during the upcoming session.

I-55 North May Be Completed in 1971

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Possibly before the new year ends — just possibly — motorists will be able to travel the entire way to St. Louis on an interstate highway.

The encouraging word came from Wm. H. Shaw, district engineer for the State Highway Department.

He quickly qualified the statement, however, and stressed that it presently is only a possibility. Actual target date is six months later, in mid - 1972, he said.

Shaw added he doubted the highway could be fully complete all the way to St. Louis, but said it could be far enough along to be opened to traffic.

It all depends on how 1971 proves out as a year for construction. And it would take a near ideal year, plus satisfactory labor relations to be far enough along for opening next holiday season.

While Shaw said he was putting himself out on a limb in even mentioning the possibility of running so far ahead of schedule, the progress so far from here to St. Louis is such that even in an average year it is likely the highway will be carrying traffic before mid - 1972.

At present, work is in varying stages from Fruitland to Festus, with an approximate six - mile stretch of highway south of Festus to be opened to traffic in the near future.

That will leave only the northern portion of Cape County, all of Perry and Ste. Genevieve Counties to be completed on the northward leg. Work on these stretches ranges from 50 per cent or so complete to about 3 per cent, Shaw said, but progress rates will likely even out in the year ahead.

A major problem in opening I-55 to traffic as the work progresses is the lack of access to Highway 61, he noted. When the present six miles south of Festus is opened, he noted that there will be little opportunity to open another stretch until the highway extends to Perryville.

Perryville is the target of the construction from the south as well. Although it is possible several miles in Cape County could be ready for traffic next summer or fall, there is no road from I-55 to Highway 61 that could serve adequately to link the two, Shaw said.

In Cape County, the only possibility would be Route KK which runs west from Old Appleton, and it is a crooked, narrow road not designed to handle the kind of traffic loads that would go over it. Furthermore, more than two miles of it would have to be traveled and it is doubtful any time or safety would be gained by this routing.

The possiblilites in Perry County are much the same, Shaw said, with the first feasible link=up with Highway 61 at Perryville. So if work progresses well next year, the entire jump from Fruitland to Perryville will be made in one step.

Highway 61 north of Perryville tends to follow the line of the Mississippi river, dipping eastward for St. Marys and Ste. Genevieve. I-55, on the other hand, has a more northwesterly course and thus the possibilities for opening separate stretches up that way are limited.

Should there be a long delay in completion of any segment of the highway, however, Mr. Shaw said he did not think the highway department would let completed sections of the highway remain unused indefinitely.

Work right now is at a standstill so far as earth - moving is concerned, but is continuing on bridges, culverts and other structures as weather permits.

Contractors are generally using colder days for steel work and taking advantage of warmer days to pour concrete. And then there is the maintenance and repair of equipment needed for efficient operation when the weather breaks next spring.

Work in Cape County is, on the whole, 32 to 50 per cent complete. In Perry County, work on three contracts is from three to 17 per cent completed, Shaw said.

When completed northward, there will remain only a 13 - mile stretch between Memphis, Tenn., and St. Louis that is not open.

Shaw said from Hayti to Steele, the right of way has been secured and the project will likely be put out for bids next summer. In the meantime, he said the deteriorating surface of Highway 61 in that stretch is to be improved under a contract to be let in January.

Other interstate projects in the district include the I-57 crossing of the Mississippi River north of Cairo and I-155 from Caruthersville to Dyersburg, Tennessee.

Shaw said work on the sub - structure for the I-155 bridge is past the half - way point and a contract for the super - structure will be let as present work nears completion.

On I-57, Shaw said Illinois has opened bids, but they seemed high and therefore may be rejected. When this project is finally under contract, Shaw said it will take four to five years to complete.

On the Missouri side, right of way is complete to tie in with the bridge from the present end of I-57 near Charleston.

M & H Seeks Listing on Big Board

MEMPHIS — Memphis - based Malone & Hyde, Inc., announced plans for a stock offering which likely would clear the way for applying for listing on the New York Stock Exchange.

J.R. Hyde III, president of the largest wholesale grocery distributor in the South, said M&H plans to file a registration statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission about mid - January.

The proposed secondary offering of common stock would come from "certain stockholders" of the company, according to a spokesman.

The primary purpose of the offering will be to increase the number of "round - lot" stockholders and thereby meet the statistical listing requirements of the NYSE the company said.

(A "round lot" is a unit of trading or its multiple.) On the NYSE the unit of trading is generally 100 shares.)

It is thought the M&H offering would have to be about 75,000 shares in order to meet the round - lot requirement for membership on the Big Board.

"It is anticipated that after the offering these requirements will be met; and if this is the case, the company then plans to apply for the listing of its common stock on the exchange."

M&H shares, now traded on the over - the - counter market, closed yesterday 15 23½ bid, 244 asked.

Meanwhile, the Jan. 1 issue of Forbes ranks M&H fourth in its industry for a five - year return on equity (defined by the financial magazine to mean the average profit management made on stockholder investment over five years).

The latest 12 - month return on equity — 18.5 per cent — puts M&H first among the same list of 35 wholesalers, according to the survey.

In the same group, Malone's 15.9 per cent annual earnings per share growth put the Memphis corporation third in its industry, according to Forbes.

Forgive us our debts.
—(Matt. 6:12)

Why is forgiveness so important? Why did Jesus put so much stress on it? Forgiveness is important, because it is a way in which we can express greater love, divine love. Our human love finds it easy to love those of whom we approve, but we should make an effort to love enough to forgive those who have been unloving toward us. God says, "As you forgive, so are you forgiven."

Library Loses Its Wagon For Christmas

LILBOURN — Twas the morn before Christmas, when all through the library, not a person could account for the station wagon because it had been stolen the night before.

It had been the custom to park the library's 1966 beige Ford station wagon at the library's back door on Main Street in Portageville, but Thursday morning no one knew anything about it.

Marshall Dial, county librarian, said that he came to work and noticed that the vehicle was not at the back door, but assumed that some member of the staff had occasion to use it that morning. Later, when all staff members were present, he asked who had the station wagon. The answer was no one.

A night police officer said that he saw the station wagon at the intersection at 9:30 Wednesday night. Having no reason to think otherwise, he thought that some staff member was returning from showing a movie for some civic club.

Dial said that highway patrolman expressed the thought that the vehicle may never be recovered as many stolen vehicles are taken outside Missouri, disassembled and sold in parts. Dial said that the keys had not been left in the ignition.

The librarian said that gasoline had been taken from staff vehicle before, but this was the first time a vehicle had been stolen. Gas caps with locks have been used by the library for several months now.

Stock Offering

J. R. Hyde, III, President of Malone & Hyde, Inc. announced today that the Company planned to file a registration statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission around the middle of January, 1971, relating to a proposed secondary offering of common stock by certain stockholders of the Company. The primary purpose of the offering will be to increase the number of "round Lot" stockholders so as to meed the statistical listing requirements of the New York Stock Exchange. It is anticipated that after the offering, these requirements will be met; and if this is the case, the Company plans to apply for the listing of its common stock on the Exchange.

REMODEL YOUR KITCHEN IN TIME FOR THE HOLIDAY FESTIVITIES

Comedians can tell all the jokes they want about modern families subsisting on tv dinners -- Mom knows better. She still spends a lot of time in the kitchen preparing meals to satisfy hearty appetites. That's why kitchen convenience is so important.

The kitchen is also injoying a revival as a social center despite the continued popularity of the family room. It's where families like to take their meals together, the neighborhood ladies gather for their coffee break and family members stop for a snack after an evening out.

If yours is an old - fashioned kitchen, why not have it modernized as a family Christmas present? This is a good time for it, according to the Plumbing -Heating -Cooling Information Bureau. Many plumbing contractors who specialize in kitchens and bathrooms offer special prices during the so -called off -season winter months.

If you're planning a new kitchen, here are some pointers designed to make it a mom - saver as well as a place to be enjoyed by the entire family:

1. Make sure the three work centers -- namely the sink, refrigerator and range -- have plenty of counter space.

2. Cabinets should extend to the ceiling. True, the top shelves are hardto reach but they're a good place to store seldom - used items, so why let the space go to waste?

3. Make sure the counters are the right height for the lady of the house, rather than for the so - called average woman of 5'4".

4. Have double - bowl sink installed. It will multiply convenience manifold.

5. Include an electric dishwasher. It will save hours of drudgery and do a better job too because it uses water hotter than human hands can stand.

6. A food waste disposer is an excellent investment. It will help keep the kitchen clean and sanitary.

7. To make the kitchen a true social center, include instant hot water and ice water dispensers for serving instant drinks and hot soups, and an automatic ice maker.

Medical Center To Close 36 Beds to Save

COLUMBIA, -- Two floors of McHaney Hall, used primarily as a rehabilitation center of the University of Missouri - Columbia Medical Center, will be closed as part of the solution to that institution's fiscal problems, Dr. William D. Mayer, dean and director of the Medical Center, said today.

The closing of these floors, representing a reduction of 36 beds, is estimated to save approximately $130,000 between January 4 and June 30, 1971.

The reduction of patient care units was one of several steps recently approved by the University Board of Curators in a plan to absorb the $2.2 million deficit which the Medical Center faces in the present fiscal year.

The units to be closed are currently used in the care of hospitalized patients (in - patients) assigned to the department of physical medicine and rehabilitation. The savings will be effected by consolidating the care of these patients within the remaining 409 beds of the University Hospital. Planning is currently under way to establish a staffing pattern for patient care within the budgetary restrictions.

The three remaining floors in McHaney Hall will continue to be used for out - patient rehabilitation treatment and for office space.

Formerly a women's dormitory for nurses and medically - oriented students, McHaney Hall was reorganized into a medical education rehabilitation center early in 1968.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Pentagon Worries About U.S. Nuclear Weapons Around World; They Could Be Seized By Anti-American Radicals, Some Fear; Missiles Kept Moving To Reduce Danger Of Attack By Enemy

WASHINGTON — There is growing concern in the backroom of the Pentagon over our ability to protect the nuclear weapons we have scattered around the world.

Plots have been reported by anti-American radicals to seek out and seize U.S. nuclear sites in Europe.

When the military junta took over Greece in April, 1967, junta troops temporarily surrounded one stockpile of nuclear warheads in Greece They withdrew, of course, without incident. But the Pentagon brass wonder nervously what would happen if a hostile coup should seize control of a country where U.S.warheads are located.

Adding to the apprehension, the GIs guarding the nuclear sites not only are inexperienced but some have been proslyted by anti-war groups. More than one deserter, including one who disappeared behind the communist curtain, is reported to have spent time at a nuclear location.

The troop turnover in Europe, meanwhile, has been so great that only green soldiers often have been available to guard the sites.

Throughout spy-infested Europe, our nuclear warheads are kept in scattered stockpiles at the mercy of friendly but foreign governments, located in some areas where every fifth pair of eyes belongs to a communist.

The purpose is not only to bring Soviet targets within range of our medium-range missiles but to discourage the Soviets ever from overshooting Europe and striking only American targets. They must knock out all our retaliatory forces, as the Japanese tried to do at Pearl Harbor, or we would bounce back with devastating counterattacks. Our nuclear sites in Europe, therefore, multiply the number of Pearl Harbors the Russians must destroy.

By law, we can't even show our allies the nuclear weapons they permit us to keep on their soil. We train their crews to handle the missiles but the warheads remain invisible to all but American eyes.

However, a high Pentagon official confessed to this column: "Let's not kid ourselves. These governments know where our nuclear fireworks are hidden. They may not know the exact buildings, but they know the locations." This was borne out by the Greek experience.

To keep the stockpiles secure, we continually rotate them. We might ship some nuclear warheads, say, from Point A to Point B. Before they reach B, secret orders may be flashed to shift them instead to Point C.

"We never leave nuclear weapons in one place for long," explained the official. "We assume every hiding place will eventually be discovered. By shifting and shuttling, we hope to keep a few days ahead of the communists."

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES

Hughes Rescues — Friends of billionaire Howard Hughes were so certain he had been bustled off to the Bahamas against his will that they plotted to send an armed rescue party to bring him back to Nevada. Now they have decided to use the courts to compel his return. They still don't believe he went to the Bahamas for a vacation. This seems a long way to go for a change of penthouses, and he has never been seen outside his penthouse in either Las Vegas or the Bahamas.

Wall Street Watch — Congress will keep a critical eye upon the stock market next year. President Nixon, eager to get the economy booming again, is taking steps to increase the money supply and the production rate. This should have a hypodermic effect upon the stock market. Key Congressmen want to make sure the investors are adequately protected. They also want to watch the impact of the great institutional investors – upon the market. The House Commerce Committee, which has jurisdiction over the securities industry, can be expected to hold exhaustive hearings.

For the Birds — Simthsonian head C. Dillon Ripley claims in a published statement that he used money for a "private" grant for his questionable pleasure cruise this summer on the Aegean, not "public" funds as we reported in this column. This sort of dissembling by the distinguished ornithologist is for the birds. All such "private" restricted grants are administered by the public institution Ripley heads. Although sometimes in separate bank accounts, the grants are all under the Smithsonian and are part of its funds. In his statement Ripley also failed to deal with the public funds he spent to get himself over to Greece and back.

Sleuths Squabble — Sen. Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, held a recent hearing on drug problems among the military in Southeast Asia. Compared to previous revelations, it was a bust. This column has now learned why.

The Republican and Democratic investigators, sent over by the committee, squabbled so much they couldn't get their work done. They also depended on the Army to give them much of the information against itself.

Donuts for Sheriffs — A reader in Macon, Ga., asked us to investigate a rumor that Georgia bonding companies have been entertaining sheriffs, whose friendship is good for business. It's true that the Alstate Bonding Company served $80.49 worth of coffee and donuts to about 60 sheriffs, their wives and guests, at the Georgia Sheriffs Association's midwinter conference in Macon earlier this month A-1 Bonding Service also had a hospitality suite at the Dempsey Motor Hotel for the sheriffs. Explained Ernest Genone, a spokesman for Alstate Bonding: "The only purpose was so that the sheriffs would know our name when we call them."

BOBCAT BOUNTY

JOHN GOULD in the
Lisbon Falls, Maine

By actual count, there are thirteen million, seven hundred and ninety- six thousand, five hundred and twenty - nine fiscal bafflements facing the Maine Legislature, which will probably be settled only by complete political reform after eventual civil turmoil, but this august (and also january to July) body spent the other afternoon debating the bobcat bounty. It was a stirring discussion, the 104th consecutive bounty bill, this being the 104th Maine Legislature.

People throughout the world, not closely in touch with Maine nuances, possibly do not know the great danger that faces humanity in this respect. The bobcat is a scourge upon the land, according to several confessed experts who urged the bounty, and unless he is systematically eliminated it will not be safe for your children to go outside and play, retail sales will dwindle, banks will have to close, railways and power companies must fail, and culture will crumble beyond recall. It just frightens you right out of your wits when you know how the whole world stands at the brink of bobcat destruction.

The Maine newspapers usually have headlines the day after one of these debates, saying, "Solons Settle bounty." Any biography I ever saw of Solon suggests this is loose usage, and does no credit to either the Greek or the newspapers, and I think the citizens of Maine, in general, neglect to embrace the outright hilarity the headlines should excite.

In my time I have read many books and attended many lectures which attempt to elucidate the democratic process, as well as several editorials, and the high intellectual level on which such is communicated has impressed me. But I have never seen a basic explanation of the bobcat bounty, so the young student may understand the complex nature of public affairs. Every person is expected to know about the executive, legislative, and judicial, but you can walk about all day and find nobody who can say with certainty just how this bounty thing works. It may be high time to expose it.

Maine, being a wilderness and recreation state, properly has a large and well - staffed department of fisheries and game. A commissioner heads it, and under his direction the duties include conservation, preservation, enforcement, education, research, and licensing. The student would presume that the bobcat question is lodged with this establishment.

But it is not. Let us gaze, instead, upon the best friend of man, the common pooch of commerce, the household dog. Every January every dog in Maine must, like aliens, report and give his name and address. And pay his statutory fee. Failing this, he is in much worse case than a human taxpayer, for the dog's existence is at stake. Of the fees thus gathered by municipalities, part stays in town to augment prosperity, and the rest is forwarded to the State House — but not to the Fish & Game Commissioner, No. To the Department of Agriculture.

In the beginning this was not strange. Maine was then well farmed, and ranging dogs often caused damage to farm animals. The Department of Agriculture would be the proper one to know about cows, sheep, swine, and poultry. So when a dog, or dogs, marauded, there was provision to pay damages to the farmer from the dog-tax fund. This part of the arrangement is still in effect. If some of my hens seem expired and I feel reimbursement might help, I call a peace officer who surveys the damage, and in time the Department of Agriculture will forward me a check.

However, now and then something happens to farm animals which cannot be blamed on the dogs. A raccoon may be the culprit. So, since the damage done by dogs never took up all the taxes they were paying, our "solons" lumped the thing, and for a long time the dogs have been paying for depredations by fishers, 'coons, foxes, bears, bobcats, owls, hawks, and assorted hen fanciers.

And the dogs have also been paying the various bounties these same solons think up from time to time. We even had a bounty, once, on the common black crow, whereby a boy with a crowcall and a good hackmatack grove could get rich quick. The most fun with a bounty, however, had to do with porcupines. Having proved that the porcupine was undermining international economics, our solons put a dog - tax price on him, and the abuses exceeded all hopes. In one town they had a good year — they took and got paid for more porcupines than exist in all the world — incredible until evidence was turned up to show that a man would take in the same porcupines over and over again until he wore them out. The dogs of Maine never murmured or repined about this handling of their funds, and the newspapers continued to use the word Solon.

This year it has been the bobcat. The state doesn't have money enough to meet its school obligations, but thanks to the dogs of Maine we may enjoy the cultural substitution of pleasant bobcat hunts.

HYDRONIC HEAT IS QUALITY TYPE

Hydronic (hot water) heat is known as a quality type. Water from a boiler is circulated through pipe to radiation in the various rooms. The heat is clean, even and draft free.

No Male Hops

Male hop flowers are banned in most European countries because they pollinate the female flowers to produce seeds that add an unpleasant bitter taste to the brewing process.

SPACE COMMAND POST. Astronauts will control solar experiments and earth resources tests from this work station in the Skylab's Multiple Docking Adapter (MDA). The MDA, a 10-foot diameter cylindrical pressure vessel attached atop the Skylab airlock, is one of the important elements of the Skylab cluster planned for launch in 1972. This mockup is being used as a trainer by NASA at Marshall Space Flight Center in Alabama.

BEHIND THE LINES, there's action at an Israeli army repair shop. Operating around the clock, workers keep tanks, armored personnel carriers and mobile cannon in combat readiness in event of a breakdown in the Mideast cease-fire.

President Nixon's bad news about revised budget estimates for fiscal 1970 (ending June 30) and 1971 cuts short the hopeful trend toward budget surpluses of the past few years. From a deficit plunge of $25.2 billion in 1968, federal accounts rose to a modest surplus in 1969 which earlier this year was expected to continue. The revisions now foresee deficits for the next two years.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

"God will cause the bright dawn of salvation to rise on us, and shine from heaven on all those who live in the dark shadow of death, to guide our steps into the path of peace." (Luke 1:78-79, Todays' English Version)

PRAYER: O Lord God, we give Thee thanks for the assurance that Thy ways are steadfast and reliable..We trust Thee to lead us toward that which is best. In the name of Christ, our Savior, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven...Amen."

ABOUT THOSE NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS MADE IN DECEMBER BROKES IN JANUARY

By Lynn Todd

"I'll study harder and get on the honor roll. I'll not talk back to my parents. I'll not fight with my kid sister. I won't gossip and I will and I won't and I will and I won't..." And on and on the list goes till it fills the paper or boggles the mind. Sounc anything like your approach to the annual New Year's resolution exercises?

If your list is as long as your arm and twice as impossible of fulfillment, the chances are that by this time you've already broken some, shattered some other, and forgottem more of them than you remembered. Fear not, oh you of good intent, for almost every other person who started January 1 with the best of intentions is exactly where you are; wondering why they took the trouble in the first place.

Does this mean that your resolutions are silly and useless and that the whole thing is a waste of time? Not at all. The start of a new year is a wonderful time to take stock. Everyone still in the process of growing into adulthood is anxious for growth and improvement. Taking stock and setting goals is the approach that works.

How, then, can you make your resolutions work for you? The first rule is not to bite off more than you can chew. Too many good intentions are just too much to deal with all at once. Make a long list, if you wish, but give priority to the two or three you consider most valuable. Concentrate on them and when you've licked them, move down the list and pick out another few for special attention. This way you'll find that your resolutions will bring some meaningful results.

No person, however dedicated, can change overnight those things he wishes to improve. The rewarding thing is progress, and it need not be revolutionary or earth shaking to make the effort very worth while.

There is no law that says you can't begin on a New Year's resolution in February or June or next September. So, if you find you've already slipped on a few, take hope. Tackle one or a few at a time. One goal accomplished is worth more than a dozen set and abandoned in desperation.

That's The Law

Truth Defense in Detectives Report

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

When Dorothy's dentist husband began spending evenings away from home, she decided he was probably sitting up with a chic friend and hired Beagle's detective agency to check on his suspected philandering. In due course, the sleuthy Mr. Beagle confirmed her suspicions and reported that Dorothy's husband was, in fact, having an affair with a sexy blonde.

Without ado, Dorothy sued for and won a divorce on the grounds of adultery and her husband, in turn, sued detective Beagle for libel.

"He had no right to make any derogatory statements about me," complained the irate dentist in court. "To report that I was having an affair with a sexy blonde was absolutely defamatory."

"What's he want from me?" responded detective Beagle. "I was hired by his wife to do a job and I did it. I only reported the tooth, the whole tooth and nothing but the tooth."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit the dentist to collect for slander?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that when a private detective is hired to check on her husband's love life and he reports back that the husband is having an affair, the husband can collect for libel only if he can prove that the detective's report is false and that it was submitted with malice. Rotary Study Awards Available

The Rotary Club is seeking young men and women from this area to apply for a Rotary Foundation educational award, according to Jim Green, club president.

The Rotary Foundation is a non-profit organization supported by contributions from Rotarians and Rotary clubs around the world. Since 1947, the Foundation has awarded more than $10 million for its programs, and more than 4,000 young men and women have gone to a country other than their own for a year of study.

Three types of educational awards are offered by the Foundation: Graduate Fellowship, for 20 to 28-year-olds with a bachelor's degree or its equivalent; Undergraduate schorlarship, for 18 to 24-year-olds with a minimum of two years of university level work; and teachnical trainee, for men and women, 21 to 35, with a secondary education and at least two years' working experience. In addition, grants are made to teams of young business and professional men who spend two months abroad in a district-sponsored study program.

An awardee receives funds to cover costs of round-trip transportation, tuition, meals, lodging, intensive language training, if necessary, and funds for educational travel during the year. Awardees are expected to act as ambassadors of good will for their country through informal contacts and through appearances before Rotary clubs and other civic and educational groups.

Each of the more than 300 districts of Rotary International each year may submit at least one candidate for an award and may apply for a group study exchange grant. The Rotary Club of Sikeston seeks a candidate for a Rotary Foundation award.

In the past, Rotary Foundation awards have been given to Alice Martin Kopp, daughter of Mrs. T. A. Martin, who studied, in 1959, in Paris; Eddie Mc Amis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Z. E. Mc Amis, and Kathryn Meredith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Meredith, have been approved for the awards.

Information about the educational awards is available from Cliff Morris, 417 South Kingshighway. Application deadline is March 15.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS from The Bible

Do not overcome by evil, but overcome evil with good. —(Rom. 12:21).

Jesus emphasized that we should not resist evil. Not understanding the working of the law of good, some persons have thought: if we don't resist evil, we will be overcome by it. Instead of resisting evil we should focus our energies on our objective; and with the strength of mind, body and spirit that God has given us, we seek to bring about good to the best of our ability and understanding.
